Series Introduction: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – When Prophecy Becomes Policy

They told us it was fiction.

A dystopian film.

A warning, maybe—but never real.

Then why is Soylent now on the shelf?

Why is food being grown in labs from human cells?

Why are aborted babies' remains used in vaccine testing and flavor development?

Why are governments talking about eating bugs while billionaires buy up farmland and force-feed us a synthetic gospel of sustainability?

What was once dismissed as satire is now the system.

We were told Soylent Green was just a movie. But it wasn't a movie—it was a blueprint.

This 9-part exposé isn't about fear. It's about reality.

It's about peeling back the branding, the science, the marketing, and the digital lies to expose what's really being served to the world:

A communion counterfeit, built on spiritual cannibalism, powered by AI systems, and designed to sever man from his Maker.

From the Bible's darkest prophecies to today's biotech headlines, this series walks you through the horrifying but undeniable truth:

The world is being conditioned to consume itself.

And if you don't sit at the table of the Lamb—you'll be on the menu of the Beast.

Choose your bread wisely.

Because man has become meat—and the only escape is the Bread of Life.

1 of 9: The Soy lent Green Conspiracy – The Prophecy of Cannibalism: “Eat My People As They Eat Bread”

Introduction: When Prophecy Meets Horror

In a world increasingly blurred between dystopian fiction and disturbing reality, one eerie prophecy continues to echo louder than most: “Who also eat the flesh of my people...” (Micah 3:3). These are not the deranged mutterings of a conspiracy theorist but the exact words of Scripture—divinely inspired warnings that a time would come when the powerful and corrupt would consume the people both literally and spiritually.

We have crossed into that time. The old science fiction film Soylent Green was once a cinematic warning. Now, the name “Soylent” is on store shelves in real life. The word alone sends chills down the spine of those paying attention. We are not merely talking about lab-grown meat or “plant-based substitutes.” We are talking about the normalization of dehumanization—where the line between what is food and what is human becomes disturbingly vague.

The Bible warned this would happen. And not just in poetic metaphor, but with gut-wrenching specificity.

Section 1: Micah 3:3 – Devouring the Innocent

“Who also eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them; and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and as flesh within the caldron.” — Micah 3:3

Micah delivers a prophetic indictment against the leaders of Israel—judges, princes, and priests—who abuse the people for personal gain. His language is not figurative exaggeration. It is a prophetic glimpse into both the physical horrors of siege and war, and the spiritual cannibalism of corrupt systems.

The imagery of people being chopped and consumed like stew meat in a cauldron is gruesome. It paints a world where humans are no longer seen as souls with value, but as resources—expendable, edible, and commodified.

This verse has both a historical and a future fulfillment. It reflects the literal horrors that befell Israel during times of siege (such as in 2 Kings 6:28–29, where mothers ate their children), and it prophesies a future world system where the leaders again flay the people—not just in body, but in soul.

We are living in that second fulfillment. Elites today flay the skin from the people financially, spiritually, mentally—and perhaps more literally than we dare imagine.

Section 2: Psalm 14:4 – “Eat Up My People as They Eat Bread”

“Have all the workers of iniquity no knowledge? who eat up my people as they eat bread, and call not upon the Lord.” — Psalm 14:4

This verse goes a step further: it implies casual cannibalism. It is not only that the wicked consume the people—but that they do so as if it were normal. As casually as one eats a slice of bread.

This casual consumption represents a world that has become numb to exploitation. The rich and powerful have always taken advantage of the poor, but what makes this verse especially terrifying is how normalized it becomes. The system doesn’t just allow it—it runs on it.

What is bread in the Bible? Daily sustenance. Something essential, common, even sacred. And yet the wicked replace it with human flesh—symbolically, economically, spiritually, and perhaps now even literally.

In an age of processed food labeled Soylent, abortion-derived cell lines used in product testing, and bioengineering that replicates human tissue in labs—Psalm 14:4 is no longer a metaphor. It is a reality.

Section 3: Ezekiel 22:27 – Predators Among the People

“Her princes in the midst thereof are like wolves ravening the prey, to shed blood, and to destroy souls, to get dishonest gain.” — Ezekiel 22:27

Here the Word of God describes leadership that is predatory—not protective. They destroy souls for profit. That’s not hyperbole; it’s policy in many places today.

We live in a system where corporations, governments, and even some religious institutions shed blood and destroy souls—for gain. Not just dishonest financial gain, but energetic, emotional, and even biological gain.

Who profits when food sources are poisoned or altered? Who gains when a disease breaks out and a “solution” must be injected into everyone? Who gains when the population is sick, addicted, and mentally broken?

Modern rulers are wolves. They devour the people to keep their own power. Just like Soylent Green—where the government hides the truth and feeds the population processed corpses—our world is beginning to mirror that exact narrative.

The wolves are not outside the gates. They are inside the food factories.

Section 4: Literal Cannibalism in the Bible – Judgment Unleashed

Cannibalism is not new in the Bible—it’s just terrifying every time it appears.

- 2 Kings 6:28–29: Mothers eat their children during a siege.
- Lamentations 4:10: “The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children: they were their meat...”
- Deuteronomy 28:53: As a curse for disobedience, God says they will eat the fruit of their own bodies.

These instances were not isolated but prophetic previews of extreme judgment. God allows the unimaginable when a society utterly rejects Him.

And now—when humanity creates food “shortages,” promotes abortion, desensitizes the public to human tissue in products, and worships technology over God—it’s not farfetched to believe the judgment of cannibalism is returning.

Only this time, it wears a barcode and is labeled “meal replacement.”

Section 5: Modern-Day Soylent – Is It Really Happening?

Here’s the part people dismiss until they see it on a shelf. “Soylent” is a real brand. It markets itself as efficient, sustainable, and futuristic. But why name it Soylent? Why echo the name of a movie where the food turns out to be processed human corpses?

It’s either grotesque irony—or intentional programming.

Some point out that “Soylent” uses soy and lentil proteins. Fair enough. But in the realm of predictive programming and occult symbolism, names are never accidental.

The more terrifying question is: what other food-like products are being normalized today that we don’t even recognize? What substances are grown from human cells? What role do fetal tissue-derived cell lines play in testing and development?

People laugh until they see the receipts:

- HEK-293: a cell line derived from aborted fetal kidney tissue used in food and vaccine testing.
- Senomyx: a company that used these cell lines in flavor research (linked to major brands).
- Bioengineered meat: companies have developed “steaks” grown from animal and human stem cells.

How long until the line between man and meat is erased?

Section 6: The Spirit Behind the Flesh – Demonic Devouring

Cannibalism is not just physical. It is spiritual. And Scripture speaks often of the spirit of devouring.

- Proverbs 30:14 – “There is a generation... whose teeth are as swords... to devour the poor...”
- Isaiah 9:20 – “They shall eat every man the flesh of his own arm.”
- Habakkuk 1:13 – “They devour the man that is more righteous than he.”

These are soul-destroying systems: corporations, governments, institutions that drain humanity of dignity, freedom, and even bodily autonomy.

This is the spirit of Antichrist—a beast that seeks to consume and replace the image of God in man with a synthetic counterfeit.

This isn’t just about food. It’s about souls.

When the system says “Eat this, it’s safe,” we better start asking: “Eat who?”

Section 7: Desensitization – From Horror to Normal

It starts with movies like Soylent Green, then becomes a joke, then becomes a product on a shelf.

The pattern of desensitization follows a demonic rhythm:

1. Shock the public (film, story, scandal).
2. Normalize through humor (memes, ads).

3. Justify for practicality (climate, efficiency).
4. Manufacture consent (shortages, crises).
5. Implement and enforce (laws, mandates).

We're deep in phase 4. Food shortages, supply chain "crises," and sustainability propaganda are setting the stage.

Soylent Green is no longer fiction. It's prophecy in disguise.

Section 8: The Final Communion – Choose Your Bread

Jesus said in John 6:51, "I am the living bread which came down from heaven... the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world."

Christ gave His flesh that we might live. The enemy demands human flesh that he might rule.

The real question is: Whose body are you eating?

The world system offers a counterfeit communion: lab-grown, processed, sterilized, lifeless.

God offers the Bread of Life.

Conclusion: Open Your Eyes Before Your Mouth

"Eat my people, as they eat bread..." was never meant to be just poetry.

Micah, David, Ezekiel—they saw this coming. The Bible doesn't just prophesy hope; it exposes horror. But it does so that we can escape it.

We are not just in a food crisis. We are in a soul crisis.

And as more "solutions" like Soylent rise to the surface, the question remains:

What are we really eating—and who are we really trusting?

2 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – Soylent Green (1973): A Prophetic Film or Programming?

“You’ve got to tell them! Soylent Green is people!”

Introduction: When Fiction Foreshadows Reality

When the film Soylent Green hit theaters in 1973, audiences were horrified by its bleak portrayal of the future: an overpopulated, resource-depleted world governed by corrupt elites who keep the masses alive through processed rations called “Soylent Green.” The film culminates in one of the most infamous twists in cinematic history—the food sustaining the people is made from human remains.

But five decades later, what once seemed like dystopian fiction now reads more like prophecy. Not only does the word “Soylent” exist on food packages today, but many of the crises portrayed in the film—food scarcity, climate manipulation, elite control, mass surveillance, medical euthanasia, and the commodification of human life—have become eerily familiar.

This essay explores the message of Soylent Green, its prophetic symbolism, and whether it was meant as a genuine warning or an early example of predictive programming—conditioning the masses to accept their own dehumanization.

Section 1: The Story in Brief – What Is Soylent Green About?

Set in the year 2022, Soylent Green depicts a planet on the brink of collapse. Earth is overcrowded, polluted, and starving. The natural world has been largely destroyed. Most people live in poverty, packed into crumbling cities, while the elite dwell in luxury—hoarding resources, information, and real food like meat, vegetables, and clean water.

The global corporation behind the Soylent brand releases a new product, Soylent Green, claimed to be made from plankton—an ocean-based protein source. But something is wrong. Detective Frank Thorn (played by Charlton Heston) investigates the murder of a high-ranking Soylent executive and uncovers a horrifying secret: the oceans are dead. There is no plankton. The Soylent Green wafers are manufactured from the remains of human beings—processed corpses.

As the film ends, a wounded Thorn cries out the now-iconic revelation: “Soylent Green is people!”

Section 2: Themes of Overpopulation, Scarcity, and Control

The film centers around a trio of interconnected fears:

1. Overpopulation – The streets are choked with bodies. Families sleep on stairwells. The infrastructure cannot support the people. The world has too many mouths to feed and no resources to sustain them.
2. Scarcity and Manufactured Crisis – Real food is rare. Water is rationed. Fresh produce is black-market contraband. The public depends entirely on the Soylent Corporation for survival. In this, we see a parallel with modern crises: food processing monopolies, seed patenting, inflation, and controlled distribution chains.
3. Elite Secrecy and Mass Deception – The population is lied to about what they're eating. The upper class knows the truth but hides it. Political leaders and corporate executives orchestrate a system built on silent cannibalism, all while maintaining the illusion of order and sustainability.

Section 3: The Shock – Cannibalism in Plain Sight

The film's final revelation is devastating. The very system that promises life is built on death. The people are literally consuming one another without knowing it. The dead are being "recycled" to feed the living. And the living, in turn, become the next batch of Soylent Green.

This is not just physical cannibalism—it's systemic dehumanization. Human beings are no longer treated as divine image-bearers but as biological resources.

In Scripture, this level of depravity is a mark of judgment. As explored in Essay 1, verses like Micah 3:3, Psalms 14:4, and Ezekiel 22:27 describe societies where the powerful "eat the flesh of my people" and "destroy souls for gain." Soylent Green captured that judgment in cinematic form, presenting a society where the unthinkable had become institutionalized.

But was this movie a warning—or something more insidious?

Section 4: A Prophetic Film or Predictive Programming?

The term predictive programming refers to the theory that mass media—films, television, books, and entertainment—is used by elites to subconsciously condition the public to accept future atrocities. What's shown as "fiction" prepares people emotionally to accept it as "reality" when it comes.

So the question must be asked:

Was Soylent Green a cautionary tale meant to wake people up?

Or was it a psychological inoculation to desensitize us to the very horrors it depicted?

Let's weigh the evidence:

As a Prophetic Warning:

- The film clearly portrays cannibalism as a nightmare. The protagonist is horrified by the truth.
- The final line—"Soylent Green is people!"—is a desperate cry to expose the evil, not justify it.
- The elites in the film are the villains. The ordinary people are victims.

This interpretation sees the movie as a mirror, held up to society to show where we might be headed if we reject moral boundaries and divine authority.

As Predictive Programming:

- Despite the horror, the name "Soylent" eventually becomes a real-world brand, marketed with irony and smug detachment.
- Since 1973, pop culture has been filled with jokes, shows, and memes referencing cannibalism in humorous or casual tones (e.g., Hannibal Lecter, zombie films, shows like Santa Clarita Diet).
- Real-world companies have used cell lines derived from aborted fetal tissue in the testing of food and drinks—eerily close to the film's premise.
- Products like lab-grown meat, "post-humanist" sustainability solutions, and discussions about "ethical cannibalism" have entered public discourse.

This interpretation sees the movie as conditioning, gradually making the unthinkable acceptable.

So, which is it?

Possibly both.

Section 5: The Elite's Playbook – Revelation Through Entertainment

One strategy of the enemy is to hide truth in plain sight. By wrapping horror in fiction, elites accomplish two goals:

1. Plausible Deniability – “It’s just a movie. Don’t take it seriously.”
2. Psychological Acclimation – Show people something long enough, and they stop reacting.

It’s no coincidence that films like Soylent Green, Logan’s Run, Children of Men, and The Hunger Games all share the same dystopian thread:

- Mass control
- Government-regulated reproduction
- Forced depopulation
- Human life as a commodity

These aren’t isolated scripts. They’re signals.

And as reality catches up with fiction—food shortages, global health policies, digital IDs, AI-run supply chains—the line between “entertainment” and “rehearsal” gets thinner.

Section 6: 2022 Fulfilled the Timeline – Not Coincidence

One of the eeriest parts of Soylent Green is that it was set in the year 2022.

And what happened in our world in 2022?

- Widespread supply chain disruptions.
- Soaring prices on eggs, meat, and grain.
- Discussion of eating bugs for sustainability.
- Mainstreaming of synthetic and lab-grown meat.
- “Soylent” brand drinks being sold in stores.
- Promotion of depopulation ideologies in the name of climate change.
- Open proposals for “human composting” and “bio-cremation.”

It’s as if someone used the film as a blueprint.

In fact, the company Soylent launched in 2013—fifty years after the film’s release—and was marketed as a “food of the future.” It came with slick branding, futuristic appeal, and the same quiet horror: what exactly are we consuming?

Section 7: The Bible’s Lens – Always One Step Ahead

The Bible is not surprised by Soylent Green. It already told us:

“In the last days perilous times shall come.” – 2 Timothy 3:1

“The whole world lieth in wickedness.” – 1 John 5:19

“They eat up my people as they eat bread.” – Psalm 14:4

What’s critical is to understand this isn’t just about food—it’s about worldviews.

Soylent Green portrays a world that worships the earth and sacrifices humanity for its preservation. The Bible shows the opposite: God made man in His image and gave the earth to him—not the other way around.

When humanity inverts that order—exalting the planet over people, treating bodies as resources, and trusting government over God—it invites judgment. And part of that judgment is delusion:

“And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie.” – 2 Thessalonians 2:11

The people in the film believed the lie. The people in real life believe the lie.

But the Bible reveals the truth.

Section 8: Spiritual Implications – Communion or Consumption

Soylent Green presents a dark communion—one where people unknowingly consume one another to stay alive.

Compare that with the words of Jesus Christ:

“This is my body, which is given for you.” – Luke 22:19

“I am the bread of life.” – John 6:35

The Lord’s Supper is a sacred act—eating His flesh and drinking His blood symbolically as a remembrance of His sacrifice. It is life-giving and holy.

Satan, as always, offers a counterfeit.

In the satanic system, the people are fed each other. The masses become the sacrifice. Death sustains the beast system. It is a twisted communion—a bloodless Eucharist of exploitation.

When society consumes its own in the name of survival, it reveals that it has rejected the true Bread of Life.

Conclusion: Sound the Alarm – The Movie Was a Message

Whether Soylent Green was intended as warning or as programming, the outcome is the same: it now reads like prophecy fulfilled. And while people laughed or shrugged for years, the packaging of horror in a fictional film has finally turned into a label on a shelf.

The system is already devouring humanity—economically, spiritually, and biologically. The cannibalism may not always be visible, but it's very real.

We are now in the Soylent Generation.

So, what do we do?

We expose it.

We reject it.

And we warn others.

Because just like Detective Thorn, our cry must be clear:

“Soylent Green is people!”

But unlike the movie, we point people not just to the problem—but to the Savior.

3 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – The Real ‘Soylent’: Desensitization Through Branding

Introduction: From Horror Film to Household Product

In 1973, the film Soylent Green shocked audiences with its dystopian vision of a future where the most vulnerable members of society are unknowingly fed the bodies of the dead. The twist—that Soylent Green is made from people—cemented itself into cinematic history. It was a warning cloaked in science fiction.

Fast forward forty years, and the word “Soylent” isn’t just a pop culture reference—it’s a real food brand. You can find it online, on store shelves, and in the hands of young professionals and tech enthusiasts. Marketed as “sustainable,” “efficient,” and “the food of the future,” Soylent claims to offer complete nutrition in a bottle. To the average consumer, it’s a quirky brand with a bold name. To the discerning eye, it’s a troubling sign of desensitization—proof that humanity can be taught to laugh at horror and swallow its own demise, so long as it comes with clean packaging and modern fonts.

This essay explores the real-world Soylent brand, its history, ingredients, marketing strategies, and symbolic alignment with the 1973 film. More importantly, it reveals how the normalization of the “Soylent” concept reflects a world sliding into spiritual numbness and prophetic fulfillment.

Section 1: The Birth of Soylent – A Tech Solution to Human Eating

In 2013, a Silicon Valley software engineer named Rob Rhinehart introduced Soylent to the world. Frustrated by the time and money it took to prepare meals, Rhinehart developed a powdered drink that claimed to contain all the essential nutrients needed for human survival.

The original formula included:

- Maltodextrin (a carbohydrate derived from corn)
- Soy protein isolate
- Canola oil
- Oat flour
- A blend of vitamins and minerals

The idea was simple: why waste time cooking when you could drink your meals like a robot? Soylent quickly found traction among tech workers, gamers, and others who preferred convenience over cuisine. It appealed to those who wanted to “optimize” their lives—spending less time eating and more time working or programming.

Initially released as a powder, Soylent evolved into ready-to-drink bottles, bars, and more. By 2015, the brand had raised tens of millions in venture capital, and by 2017, it was being sold in retail outlets like Walmart and 7-Eleven.

But from day one, one question haunted the brand: why name it Soylent?

Section 2: Why “Soylent”? A Name That Should Alarm

Naming a modern meal replacement after a fictional product made of processed human remains is either tone-deaf or deeply intentional.

In interviews, Rhinehart claimed the name was chosen as a “nod” to the film, a kind of geeky joke for those who got the reference. But there’s more going on here than irony.

The name “Soylent” is derived from the fictional Soylent Corporation in Soylent Green, which had a series of products (Soylent Red, Soylent Yellow, and finally Soylent Green). The film’s climax, as we know, reveals that Soylent Green is made from human beings. It was a commentary on depersonalization, overpopulation, and elite deception.

So when a real-world food company names itself Soylent, one must ask:

- Are they mocking the audience?
- Are they signaling something?
- Or are they participating in predictive programming—preparing us to accept the unthinkable?

This is not a harmless homage. It is part of a disturbing trend where fictional horror becomes factual branding. And the world doesn’t flinch.

Section 3: The Marketing of Human Efficiency

Soylent’s branding is sleek, minimal, and techno-utopian. Its design mimics the sterile aesthetics of pharmaceutical companies or space travel gear. Labels are plain, colors muted, messaging focused on productivity. It’s not about pleasure—it’s about fuel.

Common marketing phrases include:

- “Complete nutrition.”
- “Engineered for the future.”
- “Soylent is what food would look like if it were invented today.”

This utilitarian language strips food of culture, tradition, community, and even pleasure. It reduces nourishment to algorithmic necessity. Food becomes a clinical process, a transaction of nutrients. The human experience is minimized in favor of efficiency.

This mirrors the Soylent Green world exactly: where joy and nature are gone, and the people live on wafers produced by machines.

Even more disturbingly, some of Soylent’s original advertising campaigns included eerily suggestive phrases like:

- “Drink humans.”
- “People matter.”

Some of these were later removed after backlash—but not before they cemented a kind of sardonic tone that hinted at cannibalistic themes.

It may be satire. But satire often disguises serious conditioning.

Section 4: Ingredients and The Question of Ethics

On the surface, Soylent’s ingredients are not derived from humans (we hope). But the moral fog around modern food production is thick.

Soy protein isolate and synthetic vitamins may seem innocent—but here are the broader concerns:

- Cell Lines in Food Testing: Companies like Senomyx used embryonic kidney cells from aborted fetuses (HEK-293) to test flavor enhancers for major food and drink companies. While Soylent is not confirmed to use these methods, it exists in a food culture where human-derived elements are not only present but normalized.
- Lab-Grown Meat: Numerous companies now grow “meat” from biopsied animal cells. Some researchers have discussed growing human cells for research—or novelty meat—sparking controversy over cannibalism and ethics.
- Human Composting: Laws in several U.S. states now allow for human remains to be composted and returned to the earth—raising concerns about agricultural use, contamination, and the sanctity of the body.
- Untraceable Supply Chains: In a global food network, the average consumer has no idea what goes into most processed foods. Ingredients are labeled ambiguously, origins are hard to verify, and regulation is increasingly lax.

All of this contributes to a culture where human material may already be circulating—unnoticed or unacknowledged—in the broader system.

If we’re not there yet... we’re frighteningly close.

Section 5: Cultural Reaction – Humor as a Shield

One of the most revealing aspects of Soylent’s rise has been the way the public responds.

Despite its name and associations, most people respond with:

- Shrugging indifference (“It’s just a drink.”)
- Amused irony (“Haha! It’s like the movie!”)
- Detached curiosity (“I wonder what it tastes like?”)

This is how desensitization works.

The horror of Soylent Green has been neutralized by turning it into a meme. It’s no longer a prophetic warning—it’s a punchline. The original message is buried beneath layers of cultural sarcasm.

Even articles that critique Soylent often do so with a wink:

“Don’t worry, it’s not made from people! ...Or is it?”

Such humor serves as a psychological buffer, preventing serious moral questions from being asked.

Scripture warns about this process of dulling the conscience:

“Who, being past feeling, have given themselves over unto lasciviousness...” – Ephesians 4:19

“And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness... God shall send them strong delusion.” – 2 Thessalonians 2:10–11

When the public can laugh at the idea of eating people, the devil knows he’s done his job well.

Section 6: The Prophetic Echo – Fiction Becoming Flesh

The parallels between Soylent Green and the real-world Soylent brand are not coincidental—they are symbolic.

- Film: Dead people processed into green wafers.
- Reality: Nutrient paste in minimalist packaging.

- Film: Food shortage crisis, overpopulation, elite control.
- Reality: Supply chain manipulation, inflation, depopulation rhetoric.
- Film: People unknowingly consuming their own.
- Reality: Public laughing at the idea while eating who-knows-what.

Prophecy often reveals itself through patterns—not just predictions. The Bible repeatedly shows that when societies drift from God, they begin to consume themselves.

“They shall eat every man the flesh of his own arm...” – Isaiah 9:20

“They eat the flesh of my people...” – Micah 3:3

“They devour the poor secretly...” – Habakkuk 3:14

Whether spiritually, economically, or biologically—cannibalism is the ultimate symbol of God-less consumption. And Soylent is a banner over that dark feast.

Section 7: Communion or Counterfeit?

Christ offered His body and blood as the Bread of Life—a spiritual act of salvation.

Satan offers a twisted counterfeit: the consumption of others, disguised as “sustainability.”

There’s a reason the enemy mocks God’s most sacred acts. Communion is a covenant; it connects the believer to the life of Christ. But Soylent culture offers a false communion—one where you feed on the bodies of the poor, the discarded, the forgotten.

You don’t know their names. You don’t even know what you’re eating. You just sip the solution and go on with your optimized, data-driven life.

In that sense, Soylent isn’t just a brand—it’s a ritual of dehumanization. And most people don’t even realize they’re participating.

Conclusion: They Told Us – And We Laughed

The real “Soylent” isn’t just a drink. It’s a symbol. A prophecy. A test.

The name wasn’t chosen at random. The public’s reaction wasn’t accidental. The cultural silence around its implications isn’t benign. We were warned. And when the warning came packaged as a joke, we drank it anyway.

Desensitization doesn’t happen overnight. It happens through:

- A horror movie.
- A meme.
- A drink.
- A law.
- A silence.

Until one day... people are truly eating people. Not just physically, but spiritually, economically, and systematically.

The question is:

Will you keep sipping the silence?

Or will you spit it out and warn the others?

Because Soylent Green is no longer fiction.

It's a brand. It's a blueprint.

And it's right in front of you.

4 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – Aborted Fetal Cell Lines in Food & Pharmaceuticals

Introduction: The Sacred Made Science

What does it say about a society when the building blocks of its products—its food, its vaccines, its medications—are derived from the bodies of the aborted? What does it say about humanity when the lives of the smallest, most vulnerable, are not just discarded, but harvested, replicated, patented, and sold to corporations for profit?

We are not simply talking about controversial science. We are talking about commodifying death.

This is not a speculative theory. This is documented fact: certain fetal cell lines derived from abortions in the 1970s and 1980s have been replicated and used in the testing, research, and development of some of the world's biggest food, flavor, and pharmaceutical products.

And it raises a chilling question in the context of this series: If the film Soylent Green warned of a future where the people unknowingly consumed the dead, how different is our world today—when companies openly use cell lines from aborted children in the production process?

This essay explores HEK-293 and other fetal cell lines, their usage in industry, the corporate partnerships behind them, and the deep spiritual cost of such practices. It reveals how modern science has crossed a sacred boundary—turning human life into a product line.

Section 1: What Are Fetal Cell Lines?

A fetal cell line is a culture of cells that originated from the tissue of an aborted fetus and has been replicated, in some cases, for decades. These cells are grown in laboratories and used in testing or production of other biological materials.

Key points:

- The cells themselves are not the original fetal tissue but are descendants of it.
- They can be grown indefinitely under the right lab conditions.
- They are often used in testing for toxicity, flavor reactions, or vaccine effectiveness.

The most widely known of these cell lines is HEK-293:

- HEK stands for Human Embryonic Kidney.
- The “293” refers to the 293rd experiment done by a Dutch scientist in the early 1970s.
- The kidney cells were taken from a healthy female fetus aborted for non-medical reasons.

Other common fetal cell lines include:

- PER.C6 – Retinal cells from an aborted fetus (used in vaccines and gene therapy).
- WI-38 – Lung tissue from a 3-month-old aborted fetus (used in vaccine development).
- MRC-5 – Another lung cell line from a male fetus aborted in the 1960s.

While these cells are not directly “in” the final product, they are used in research, testing, and development—a fact corporations are reluctant to publicize.

Section 2: How Fetal Cells Are Used in Food & Drink Testing

In the early 2000s, a biotech company called Senomyx made headlines for using HEK-293 cells to test and develop flavor enhancers for major food brands. Their focus was on replicating the taste responses of the human tongue by using human-derived cells in lab simulations.

Here's how it worked:

- HEK-293 cells were genetically modified to mimic taste receptors (sweet, salty, etc.).
- Chemicals were tested on these cells to observe reactions.
- Successful compounds were then licensed to companies like PepsiCo, Nestlé, Campbell's, and Kraft.

Important note: these cells were not in the final products. But they were instrumental in their development.

Consumers, when made aware, were shocked. Pro-life watchdogs like Children of God for Life led public campaigns demanding transparency. Many people who would never knowingly support abortion were, by ignorance or deception, supporting products built on it.

Senomyx was later acquired by Firmenich, a Swiss-based flavoring giant, and much of the documentation surrounding their fetal cell work faded from public view. But the precedent was set: human fetal cells were now part of the flavor industry.

The public didn't revolt. They barely noticed.

Section 3: The Pharmaceutical Industry's Deep Roots in Fetal Tissue

Pharmaceutical use of fetal cell lines is even more widespread—and often more hidden. Vaccines, gene therapies, and biologic drugs frequently involve these cell lines, either in research, development, or production.

Examples include:

- Rubella, Hepatitis A, Chickenpox, and Shingles vaccines – These use the WI-38 or MRC-5 lines in development.

- COVID-19 vaccines – While some, like Pfizer and Moderna, used fetal cells in testing (not production), others like Johnson & Johnson used PER.C6 directly in manufacturing.
- Monoclonal antibody drugs – Some are tested or developed using fetal-derived cell lines.
- Gene therapies – Especially those using viral vectors or delivery systems often rely on HEK-293 or PER.C6.

Manufacturers argue that since the original abortions happened decades ago, and since the cells have been multiplied synthetically, no moral harm exists. But this logic is deeply flawed:

- The origin is still abortion.
- The usage perpetuates a system that benefits from the shedding of innocent blood.
- Many researchers now argue that “new” fetal tissue should be harvested to replace aging lines—thus creating a future market for abortion-derived materials.

Section 4: “Not In the Product” ≠ “Not a Problem”

One of the most common defenses used by companies is the claim: “There’s no fetal tissue in the final product.” This is technically true. But morally irrelevant.

Imagine a company testing a new food product on dogs tortured in labs. Would people accept it simply because the dog isn’t in the final candy bar?

The core issue is not chemical content. It is complicity in a process rooted in death.

The Bible does not separate action from intent. It condemns:

- Shedding innocent blood (Proverbs 6:17)
- Those who frame mischief by a law (Psalm 94:20)
- Those who do evil that good may come (Romans 3:8)

The moral question is this:

Can you use the fruit of a wicked tree without sharing in the guilt of its planting?

Scripture answers that in 1 Timothy 5:22 – “Neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.”

Participating—even passively—in systems built on blood corrupts the soul.

Section 5: The Commodification of Life and Death

We are not just witnessing scientific advancement. We are witnessing the transformation of human beings into raw materials.

Fetal tissue is now:

- Patented
- Cloned
- Distributed
- Sold (or “reimbursed” to skirt legal terminology)
- Injected
- Researched
- Profited upon

This is not science fiction. This is human trafficking at the cellular level.

A few years ago, undercover videos by the Center for Medical Progress exposed conversations between abortion providers and biotech companies negotiating prices for fetal organs. The footage revealed:

- Intact organs harvested from living fetuses.
- “Less crunchy” abortion techniques used to preserve tissue.
- Discussions about profit margins and order sizes.

These are the same tissues that find their way into vaccines, testing platforms, and food development labs. The trail leads from the abortion clinic... to the boardroom... to the product in your cabinet.

And no one is required to disclose it.

Section 6: The Spiritual Implications – Defiling the Temple

The Bible is not silent on this kind of evil.

“Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy...” – 1 Corinthians 3:16–17

When human life is reduced to a tool, and when that life is derived from innocent blood, it defiles the temple—both the body and the culture.

The ancient world practiced child sacrifice to Molech. They believed the blood of infants would grant them blessing, fertility, and victory.

Modern man no longer burns the child alive. He aborts him quietly, freezes his tissue, multiplies his cells, and turns him into profit.

The gods are the same. Only the temples have changed:

- The altar is now the lab bench.
- The incense is synthetic.
- The priest is a scientist in a white coat.
- The congregation is unaware.
- The result is the same—judgment.

“They sacrificed their sons and their daughters unto devils... and the land was polluted with blood.” – Psalm 106:37–38

Section 7: “The Greater Good” – The Lie That Justifies the System

One of the loudest defenses of fetal cell research is that it serves the “greater good.” We’re told:

- “If we don’t use the tissue, it will go to waste.”
- “Millions are saved by vaccines developed this way.”
- “The ends justify the means.”

But this is the exact lie the devil has used since Eden:

“Ye shall not surely die... ye shall be as gods.”

The belief that we can benefit from evil without consequence is foundational to the Antichrist system. It is a system that knows the origin is wicked, uses the fruit anyway, and denies responsibility because it works.

But God does not bless murder. He does not condone convenience built on the back of the innocent.

The so-called “greater good” has become a modern golden calf—an idol of progress that demands the blood of children for its power.

Section 8: Disconnecting the Conscience – The Silence of the Church

Perhaps the most damning aspect of this issue is the silence. Most Christians:

- Have no idea fetal cells are used in the food or pharma industries.
- Assume anything approved by government or science is “safe.”
- Avoid looking into it because it’s too uncomfortable.

But comfort is not an excuse for complicity.

“My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge...” – Hosea 4:6

The Church must reclaim its prophetic voice. It must expose this darkness—not for sensationalism, but for righteous separation.

We are called to:

- Be salt that slows decay.
- Be light that exposes evil.
- Be watchmen that cry out when danger approaches.

If we refuse to speak out when children are being dismembered, cloned, and commodified... we are not disciples. We are silent priests at Molech’s altar.

Conclusion: You Are What You Consume—In Spirit

The phrase “you are what you eat” is more spiritual than we realize. When we consume products built on the backs of the unborn, something happens to our soul. We may not feel it, but we are participating in the spirit of Antichrist—one that denies life, twists creation, and uses death for advancement.

This is not just about food or vaccines. This is about how we see human life.

The spirit of Soy lent Green is not fiction. It is the reality of our world:

- Where the dead are consumed for the living.
- Where science silences conscience.
- Where branding covers blood.
- Where “choice” becomes currency.

But we are not without hope. The blood that speaks louder than the blood of Abel is not fetal—it is Christ’s.

His blood cleanses. His blood restores. His blood sets us apart.

So the question remains:

Will you be complicit in the consumption of death?
Or will you stand for the sanctity of life?

Because Soylent Green was never just a movie.
It was a mirror.

5 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – Lamentations in the Flesh: The Judgment of Cannibalism in Scripture

Introduction: When Hunger Becomes Horror

There are few scenes more heart-wrenching in the Bible than those that describe mothers eating their children. It defies the natural order. It violates the deepest maternal instinct. It shatters our understanding of love, nourishment, and survival.

And yet—it is in the Bible. Multiple times.

Not only is it recorded as history, but it is also prophesied as judgment. Cannibalism is not portrayed as random savagery or tribal cruelty in Scripture. It is portrayed as a specific, divine response to rebellion. A judgment so severe, so grotesque, that it reflects the depth of moral collapse in a people who have rejected God.

This essay explores four key passages—Lamentations 4:10, Deuteronomy 28:53, 2 Kings 6:28–29, and others—to show that cannibalism in the Bible is not just literal history, but a shadow of spiritual famine, a final stage of societal corruption, and a prophetic symbol for what happens when man tries to survive apart from God.

As part of The Soyilent Green Conspiracy series, we will also examine how these historical judgments might echo in our time—not only in the literal breakdown of food systems, but in a modern culture already cannibalizing its own through pharmaceutical, economic, and ideological means.

Section 1: Lamentations 4:10 – The Most Pitiful Act

“The hands of the pitiful women have sodden their own children: they were their meat in the destruction of the daughter of my people.” – Lamentations 4:10

This verse does not read like a parable or allegory. It is a report of the unspeakable. Women—called “pitiful” because they once had compassion—have boiled and eaten their own children during the Babylonian siege of Jerusalem.

This happened. Jeremiah, the presumed author of Lamentations, witnessed it. And he didn’t write it for shock value—he wrote it to capture the spiritual weight of Israel’s rebellion.

A few key observations:

- These are not monstrous women. They are “pitiful,” once soft, once tender. But desperation has twisted love into hunger.
- The word “sodden” implies not just consumption, but deliberate preparation—a total descent into survival mode.
- The context is the destruction of Jerusalem—God’s judgment upon a people who ignored prophetic warning after warning.

What was once unthinkable became real.

And that is the terror of judgment: when the boundaries of conscience collapse, and the sacred becomes fuel.

This is not just a historical horror. It’s a theological cry—a warning that the loss of God’s protection leads to the collapse of all human decency.

Section 2: Deuteronomy 28:53 – A Curse for Rebellion

“And thou shalt eat the fruit of thine own body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters, which the Lord thy God hath given thee, in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:” – Deuteronomy 28:53

Deuteronomy 28 is one of the most sobering chapters in the Bible. It outlines blessings for obedience—and curses for rebellion. Among the curses, the most horrifying is this: you will eat your own children.

This was not poetic language. God was warning of a real, historical consequence. And He describes:

- The loss of food supply during siege.
- The tightening of enemy control.
- The eventual madness and desperation that leads to cannibalism.

The most terrifying part? The children are described as a gift from the Lord. And the people would consume them not just physically, but spiritually—rejecting the blessing in favor of survival.

This is prophetic. It applies both to ancient Israel and to modern times. When a society begins to kill and consume its young, it reveals that it no longer sees life as sacred. Children become obstacles. Resources. Waste. Fuel.

Abortion is modern cannibalism.

Child trafficking is economic cannibalism.

Trans ideology that mutilates children is ideological cannibalism.

And many food, pharma, and political systems are built on the exploitation of the next generation.

This is the curse of Deuteronomy 28 manifesting again.

Section 3: 2 Kings 6:28–29 – “We Boiled My Son”

“And the king said unto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, This woman said unto me, Give thy son, that we may eat him to day, and we will eat my son to morrow. So we boiled my son, and did eat him: and I said unto her on the next day, Give thy son, that we may eat him: and she hath hid her son.” – 2 Kings 6:28–29

This passage is perhaps the most disturbing of all. Two women make a verbal agreement to boil and eat their children in turn.

This is not mere desperation. This is deliberate, consensual, scheduled cannibalism.

Context:

- This took place during the Syrian siege of Samaria.

- Food was so scarce that donkey heads and dove dung were sold for high prices.
- The king of Israel, upon hearing this, tore his clothes in despair.

But what caused such horror?

Judgment.

Israel had turned away from God. Idolatry and disobedience had corrupted every level of society. And when God’s hand of protection was lifted, unimaginable evil became real life.

This is a perfect parallel to today.

Consider this: in some clinics, women sign consent forms to have their babies dismembered, harvested, and sold for research. In others, experimental procedures are done on fetal tissue without any recognition of humanity.

It’s not called cannibalism. It’s called “science.”

It’s not a pot over fire. It’s a petri dish under a microscope.

But it’s the same sin—and the same judgment.

Section 4: The Pattern of Divine Judgment

God never sends judgment without warning. Every case of cannibalism in Scripture is preceded by:

- Prophetic warning (Jeremiah, Isaiah, Elijah, etc.)
- National rebellion (idolatry, murder, injustice)
- Leadership corruption (priests and kings leading astray)
- Moral collapse (family breakdown, exploitation of the poor)

Cannibalism is the last stage—when God allows sin to devour itself. It is the “Romans 1” moment of total abandonment.

“Wherefore God also gave them up...” – Romans 1:24

He doesn’t cause the evil. He removes His restraint, and the evil consumes itself.

That’s what happened in ancient Israel.

And that is what is happening again—this time globally.

- We are warned.

- We are rebellious.
- Our leaders are corrupt.
- And we are devouring our own.

From child sacrifice in the womb to spiritual starvation in the church, we are cannibalizing the blessings God gave us.

Section 5: Modern Cannibalism – Sanitized and Justified

The cannibalism of today doesn't look like boiling pots and bloody meat. It looks like:

- A soda tested on aborted fetal cells.
- A vaccine developed with cells from dismembered babies.
- A synthetic meat product grown from cells that could be human.
- A biotech firm developing “ethical cannibalism” products as a climate solution.
- A society that feeds its adults by sacrificing its children—socially, ideologically, and biologically.

We laugh at the idea of cannibalism as though it's a medieval relic. But the spirit of it is alive and well.

And that's exactly how Satan works.

He rebrands the horror, sanitizes it, and sells it in sterile packages. Instead of fire and fury, he offers flavors and formulas.

But God sees through it all.

Section 6: The Prophetic Cry – Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Lamentations

God's prophets didn't just describe cannibalism—they wept over it.

“Mine eye runneth down with rivers of water...” – Lamentations 3:48

“They that be slain with the sword are better than they that be slain with hunger...” – Lamentations 4:9

These prophets were not desensitized. They were devastated. They saw their people brought to ruin—not because God failed, but because the people rejected Him.

The prophetic voice in our day must recover this grief.

Too many preachers today:

- Avoid these passages.
- Dismiss them as “Old Testament extremism.”
- Replace judgment with self-help.

But the truth is clear: God judges sin. And when a people reach the point of eating their own, they are on the brink of destruction.

This is not just about history. It is about urgency.

Section 7: The Parallel to Soylent Green

In Soylent Green, the people eat what the government gives them.

They trust the system.

They don't question the source.

Until one man discovers the truth: “Soylent Green is people.”

Now reflect on Scripture:

- A city under siege.
- People desperate for food.
- A government that cannot help.
- A society that turns on its own.

The Bible and Soylent Green point to the same end:

A godless world will always eat itself.

It may call it “progress.”

It may package it in science.

It may hide the ingredients.

But at the end of the day, if you reject the Bread of Life, you will eat your own flesh in judgment.

Section 8: The Gospel Contrast – Eat of Me and Live

There's one more "eating" in the Bible we must understand:

"Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you." – John 6:53

Jesus did not call us to literal cannibalism. He called us to partake of His life. His body broken for us. His blood shed for our sins.

The true communion is not the flesh of the innocent murdered in secret. It is the flesh of the sinless Son, sacrificed in love.

The world devours.

The world exploits.

The world offers food that kills.

Christ offers Himself—the food that gives eternal life.

You must choose:

- The cursed table of cannibalism.
- Or the blessed table of communion.

Conclusion: Let the Lamentation Begin Now

Cannibalism is not fiction. It is not confined to history. It is prophetic judgment for a world that has forsaken God.

From Lamentations to Deuteronomy to modern food labs, we see the same pattern:

- Rejection of God.
- Collapse of society.
- Hunger for survival.
- Consumption of the innocent.

We must not wait until it's literal. It already is—spiritually, ideologically, economically.

And like the prophets of old, we must lament:

- Over a culture that consumes children.
- Over a church that consumes false doctrine.
- Over a world that feeds on itself.

But even in the darkest hour, the hope is Christ:

“I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger...” – John 6:35

Only in Him is true nourishment.

Only in Him is life that satisfies.

Only in Him can the curse be reversed.

6 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – Spiritual Cannibalism: Feeding on the Souls of the Simple

Introduction: The Hidden Appetite of the Wicked

Cannibalism is not always about flesh. In fact, the most dangerous form of cannibalism is not physical—it’s spiritual. It is when the powerful feed on the powerless, not with forks and knives, but with policies, lies, manipulation, and exploitation. It is when the elite, driven by lust for control, suck the strength from the poor, the weak, and the unaware, like leeches in expensive suits. It is when people are not eaten—but used up.

Scripture speaks of this dark truth in Proverbs 30:14:

“There is a generation, whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives, to devour the poor from off the earth, and the needy from among men.”

This is a chilling image: not literal cannibals, but people whose words, systems, and decisions drain the life out of others.

In this essay, we expose the reality of spiritual cannibalism—how society’s elites, occultic influencers, and corrupt rulers feed off the innocent. We’ll explore emotional and economic exploitation, child trafficking, spiritual warfare, and how these all align with biblical prophecy. Cannibalism is more than a horror trope—it is a spiritual condition. A consuming spirit.

And the warning of Soylent Green—that people are being fed into a system that devours them—is more relevant now than ever.

Section 1: Proverbs 30:14 – Teeth as Swords

“There is a generation, whose teeth are as swords, and their jaw teeth as knives...” – Proverbs 30:14

This verse is not about vampires or barbarians. It’s about predatory people. It describes a kind of person (or generation) who:

- Uses words to cut and manipulate.
- Devours people emotionally, financially, and spiritually.
- Destroys others for personal gain.

Their “teeth” are not literal. They are instruments of devouring—just as Satan is called a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour (1 Peter 5:8). This generation speaks poison. It eats the weak. And it leaves nothing behind but broken souls.

This verse is not isolated. All through Scripture we find the same truth: some people feed off the destruction of others.

“They eat up my people as they eat bread...” – Psalm 14:4

“They flay their skin... they break their bones...” – Micah 3:3

“Ye have eaten up the vineyard; the spoil of the poor is in your houses.” – Isaiah 3:14

These are not cannibals in the jungle. These are kings, judges, merchants, influencers, and institutions. They feast on the innocent by consuming:

- Their labor (exploitation).
- Their emotion (manipulation).
- Their souls (corruption).

Section 2: The Souls of the Simple

The word “simple” in Proverbs often refers to:

- The naive.
- The untrained.
- The innocent.
- The trusting.

These are the prime targets of spiritual cannibals.

In today's world, the "simple" are not just uneducated—they are conditioned to trust systems that devour them:

- Public education that dismantles critical thinking.
- Media that pacifies while propagandizing.
- Churches that preach comfort instead of conviction.
- Governments that promise provision while creating dependence.

The elite don't need to physically devour the poor. They just need to control their perception and drain their vitality.

This is why the Bible warns repeatedly about guarding your heart, mind, and soul:

"Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." – Proverbs 4:23

"Let no man take your crown." – Revelation 3:11

"Be not deceived..." – Galatians 6:7

Because when you let the wrong system into your spirit, it feeds on you.

Section 3: Modern Cannibalism – Energy, Emotion, and Power

Let's redefine cannibalism for a moment—not as eating flesh, but as consuming the essence of another for your own benefit.

Then suddenly, the entire world makes sense.

Entertainment Industry:

Celebrities perform spiritual rituals disguised as art, drawing the energy of the crowd through seduction, symbolism, and sound. The masses give them worship. In return, they are fed confusion, lust, and emptiness.

"They that make them are like unto them; so is every one that trusteth in them." – Psalm 115:8

Politics:

The poor are baited with promises. Votes are bought with lies. Hope is devoured in election cycles. And while the elite play games, the people lose families, jobs, and sanity.

Pharmaceuticals:

Health is preyed upon. Solutions create new problems. The sick are kept sick so the system keeps profiting. And behind it all are cell lines from aborted children, linking back to literal blood sacrifice.

Corporate Slavery:

People work for corporations that drain their energy, time, and creativity—and give them back just enough money to keep them alive for next week’s shift. The poor labor to feed the rich.

Every one of these systems feeds off the people. And the people, conditioned by comfort and lies, offer themselves willingly.

It is a voluntary sacrifice at the altar of modernity.

Section 4: Child Trafficking – The Ultimate Spiritual Cannibalism

The most horrifying expression of spiritual cannibalism is the global child trafficking network. This is not a conspiracy theory—it’s a confirmed, well-documented reality.

Children are:

- Trafficked for labor and sex.
- Used in ritual abuse.
- Exploited for organ harvesting.
- Subjected to torture to extract adrenalized blood (“adrenochrome”) for elite consumption.

This is not metaphor. This is literal evil. And it is the full manifestation of what Proverbs 30:14 warned us about.

There truly is a generation whose “teeth are as swords”:

- They destroy the poor.
- They harvest the innocent.
- They consume childhood.

Hollywood, government, elite circles—many have been implicated. Yet the media downplays, distracts, or denies. Why? Because the system is built on this cannibalism.

“They that hate me love death.” – Proverbs 8:36

And there is no greater death than the defilement of a child.

Christ said:

“Whoso shall offend one of these little ones... it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck...” – Matthew 18:6

God is not silent. He sees. And He will judge.

Section 5: The Occult & Ritual Consumption

Spiritual cannibalism is also practiced in occultic rituals—often disguised or symbolic.

Across ancient and modern secret societies:

- The idea of eating the flesh of the god is common.
- Blood rituals simulate power transfer.
- Organs and body parts are used in rites to gain wisdom, energy, or control.

These practices are not isolated. They trace back to Babylon, Egypt, and beyond. The spiritual logic is: to gain power, you must consume life.

This is a perverted imitation of Christian communion.

Where Christ offers His body as a gift, Satan’s version demands taking someone else’s body as a sacrifice.

It’s no wonder that those at the highest levels of influence often show signs of occult allegiance:

- Symbolism in clothing, logos, and gestures.
- Ritualistic events disguised as concerts or ceremonies.
- Quotes about “energy” and “harvesting” from the public.

“The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy...” – John 10:10

Satan is a spiritual cannibal. And those who serve him feed the same way.

Section 6: Exploiting the Weak in Churches

Even many churches today are not exempt from this predatory spirit. False teachers:

- Use guilt to manipulate giving.

- Feed off the emotional wounds of the desperate.
- Teach prosperity while enriching themselves.

“Woe unto you... ye devour widows’ houses...” – Luke 20:47

The prosperity gospel is a form of spiritual cannibalism. It preys on the poor with promises of wealth—if they just give more seed.

The cultic church is another. It demands absolute loyalty. It thrives on spiritual abuse. It drains identity, independence, and discernment from its members.

When Paul warned Timothy of false teachers, he said:

“...men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith.” – 2 Timothy 3:8

These are soul-feeders. Parasites in pulpits.

True shepherds lay down their lives for the sheep.

False shepherds slaughter the sheep for wool.

Section 7: The Simple Must Be Warned

The Book of Proverbs warns constantly about the “simple.” Not evil. Not rebellious. Just unaware.

“How long, ye simple ones, will ye love simplicity?” – Proverbs 1:22

But the warning is not just to them—it is to us. If we know the system feeds on them, and we say nothing, we are accomplices.

“Deliver those that are drawn unto death...” – Proverbs 24:11

We are called to:

- Expose the lies.
- Protect the innocent.
- Warn the naive.
- Shine light into the shadows.

Because spiritual cannibalism thrives in darkness. It depends on silence.

We must speak.

Section 8: The Gospel Frees the Devoured

There's only one antidote to spiritual cannibalism: the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

He is the only one who:

- Gives His flesh, not to feed Himself, but to save us.
- Offers His blood, not to drain, but to cleanse.
- Fills us with the Holy Spirit, not to control, but to free.

The devil devours.

Christ delivers.

“I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.” – John 10:10

The world will continue feeding on itself. The elite will continue using the masses. The wicked will still harvest the simple.

But you—child of God—have been delivered. You now feed on truth. You are nourished by righteousness. You partake of life.

And your mission is clear:

- Sound the alarm.
- Rescue the taken.
- Break the spell.
- Expose the devourers.

Conclusion: Cannibalism at the End of the Age

Spiritual cannibalism is the great hidden plague of our time.

You won't see it in mainstream headlines. But it's everywhere:

- In entertainment that drains innocence.
- In media that manipulates.
- In government that bleeds the poor.
- In industries that use human parts for testing.

- In churches that devour the flock.

The Soy lent Green of today is not just made of people. It feeds on their souls.

But those who know the truth must never stay silent. Like Ezekiel, we must be watchmen on the wall. Like John the Baptist, we must cry in the wilderness.

Because the only way to stop being consumed...

Is to feed on the Word of God.

7 of 9: The Soy lent Green Conspiracy – Transhumanism, Cloning & The Synthetic Flesh Agenda

“And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark...” – Revelation 13:17

Introduction: Flesh Reimagined – The Final Frontier of Control

We are witnessing a silent coup against God’s creation—one cell at a time. In a world obsessed with progress and optimization, the very building blocks of life—DNA, flesh, food, and identity—are being rewritten in laboratories and boardrooms. What was once fantasy is now functioning reality: lab-grown meat, cloned humans, synthetic organs, and gene-spliced creations are now openly discussed, funded, and developed.

But this isn’t about innovation. It’s about domination. At the root of it is a spiritual rebellion—one that began in Eden, accelerated in Babel, and now reaches its apex through Transhumanism and the Synthetic Flesh Agenda.

In this seventh installment of The Soy lent Green Conspiracy, we dive into the disturbing world of lab-grown flesh, food developed from human cells, cloning technology, and the merging of man with machine. And we’ll expose how all of it is steering mankind toward the prophetic endgame of Revelation 13, where no one can buy or sell without being part of the Beast system.

Section 1: God Created Flesh – Man Now Replicates It

“So God created man in his own image...” – Genesis 1:27

Flesh is not merely biology. It is a sacred creation. God formed man from the dust of the ground, breathed into him the breath of life, and gave his flesh purpose, order, and identity. Even in the Fall, the body retained a unique role in God's redemptive plan:

- Christ took on flesh (John 1:14).
- His flesh was torn for our healing (Isaiah 53:5).
- The flesh is a vessel either of obedience or sin (Romans 8:8).

Satan, however, has always sought to corrupt the flesh. Genesis 6 tells us that all flesh was corrupted before the flood. Today, the same corruption returns—only this time through technological sorcery.

Modern science has taken the sacred and made it synthetic:

- Organs grown in labs from stem cells.
- Lab-grown meat created from animal (and human) cells.
- CRISPR gene editing to customize DNA like software.
- Human cloning experiments underway in hidden labs.

This isn't medicine. This is man playing God.

Section 2: Cultured Meat – The Flesh of the Future?

Companies around the globe are now developing what they call “cultivated meat” or “cell-based protein.” The process involves:

- Extracting a biopsy from a living animal (or human cell in some cases).
- Feeding those cells nutrients in bioreactors.
- Multiplying the cells until they form muscle tissue.
- Shaping the tissue into “meat” without killing an animal.

At first glance, this sounds ethical. It's marketed as:

- “Sustainable”
- “Cruelty-free”
- “Environmentally friendly”

But let's ask a deeper question: What happens when these cells are human?

Some companies—openly or experimentally—have explored:

- Using human cells to test meat textures.
- Art projects where human cells were cultured into edible form (e.g., the 2020 project “Ouroboros Steak” made from human cheek cells).
- Talk of novelty meat—steaks grown from the DNA of celebrities.

What begins as science often ends as ritual.

Is it still “meat” if it's grown from man? And what kind of society would eat itself in the name of progress?

The answer: one that has already lost the fear of God.

“The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom...” – Proverbs 9:10

Section 3: The Synthetic Flesh Agenda – Redefining Humanity

The synthetic flesh agenda is not limited to food. It includes:

- Transhumanist biohacking: altering the body with implants, AI, and cybernetics.
- Cloning and embryo editing: creating “designer babies” or replicas of elites.
- Digital flesh: building avatars and “digital twins” that replicate real people.
- Artificial wombs: removing human gestation from the female body entirely.

The message behind all of this is clear:

“Flesh is no longer sacred. It is a commodity. It is editable. It is ownable.”

This agenda has theological roots. It mirrors the Nephilim corruption in Genesis 6—where fallen angels tampered with flesh to produce abominations. Jesus said, “As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also...” (Matthew 24:37).

Transhumanism is the modern Nephilim doctrine. It promises:

- Eternal life without God.
- Enhanced strength and intelligence.
- Escape from disease, aging, and weakness.

But it delivers:

- Enslavement to AI.
- Dismantling of identity.
- Disqualification from salvation (when the image of God is overwritten).

In short: a synthetic soul for a synthetic body.

Section 4: The Blurring of Food and Flesh

There is a subtle but powerful campaign underway to blur the line between what we eat and who we are.

In the past, food was natural:

- Plants, animals, grains, fruits.

Now, food is:

- Lab-grown, genetically modified, cell-cultured, synthesized.

And the push is growing to:

- Normalize eating insects (to reduce livestock).
- Shift to plant-based meat (engineered for taste, not health).
- Accept cultured meat from anything “cell-based.”

At some point, the question arises:

“Does it matter what it’s made from, as long as it’s labeled safe?”

And when that happens... the door opens to cannibalistic consumption without conscience.

“They eat up my people as they eat bread...” – Psalm 14:4

The Bible warned us that there would be a generation so detached, they would:

- Consume each other spiritually.
- Consume the innocent economically.
- Eventually, consume the body—literally.

The Soylent Green prophecy is not about wafers. It's about a society that forgot what flesh means.

Section 5: Transhumanism & Revelation 13 – The Mark of the Flesh

Now we come to the climax of the synthetic agenda—Revelation 13:16–17:

“And he causeth all... to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads... and that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark...”

This passage reveals a future where:

- A system controls all commerce.
- A mark, tied to identity and loyalty, is required.
- Those without the mark are economically excluded.

But notice:

- The mark is received in the body—not just worn.
- It's connected to buying, selling, and survival.

Now consider this:

- What if the mark also affects what you can eat?
- What if synthetic meat, human-grown food, or “approved proteins” are tied to mark authorization?
- What if your body must be altered—vaccinated, chipped, tagged—to be allowed into the new food system?

In this light, the push toward lab-grown food is not about sustainability. It's about access control.

You will own nothing.

You will eat what you're given.

You will be grateful.

Or... you will starve.

That is the Beast system. And it begins with the control of flesh.

Section 6: The Theology of Flesh – God’s View vs. Man’s View

God views flesh as:

- Temporary yet sacred.
- Corrupted by sin, but redeemable.
- The temple of the Holy Spirit (1 Corinthians 6:19).

Man now views flesh as:

- Editable.
- Programmable.
- Replaceable.

God says:

“I will put my Spirit within you...” (Ezekiel 36:27)

Transhumanism says:

“I will put my chip in you.”

God’s Son came in the likeness of sinful flesh to redeem us (Romans 8:3).

Satan now offers a new flesh, untouched by God, outside the covenant of blood.

This is why salvation is not available to the Beast worshippers in Revelation:

“If any man worship the beast... he shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God...” –
Revelation 14:9–10

Because their flesh has been replaced. Their identity rewritten.

Section 7: Cloning & the Fall of the Image of God

Cloning is the ultimate synthetic rebellion. It says:

- “We can create man in our image.”
- “We don’t need male and female.”
- “We don’t need a soul. Just a copy.”

In labs around the world, animal cloning is now common. Human embryo editing has already occurred in China. And somewhere—behind black-budget walls—it’s likely that human clones already exist.

What does this mean?

1. The sanctity of life is destroyed.

- No uniqueness. No design. Just data.

2. The idea of sin and salvation is disrupted.

- What is a soul to a clone?
- Can something man-made be born again?

3. The end of accountability.

- If you can replace your body, you never have to face judgment.

This is Satan’s lie from the beginning: “Ye shall not surely die.”

Cloning is the technological version of that lie.

Section 8: Synthetic Flesh in Culture – The Conditioning

Hollywood, media, and advertising have been preparing us for this:

- Films like Ex Machina, Blade Runner, The Island, and Gattaca present cloned or modified humans.
- Soylent Green, Snowpiercer, and The Matrix explore food systems that use human components.
- Commercials now depict “bio-enhanced” people, smart implants, and AI companions.

This is called predictive programming. The goal is to:

- Desensitize.
- Normalize.
- Prepare.

So that when synthetic meat includes human cells, or when cloning becomes commercial, or when the Beast system controls food—no one resists.

They will say:

But God’s Word says:

“Woe unto them that call evil good, and good evil...” – Isaiah 5:20

Conclusion: Choose Your Flesh Carefully

At the end of the day, there are only two kinds of flesh:

1. Flesh made by God – sacred, created, redeemed.
2. Flesh made by man – synthetic, corrupted, enslaved.

You must choose which table you eat from.

Jesus said:

“Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man... ye have no life in you.” – John 6:53

This was not cannibalism. This was communion.

But the world now offers a counterfeit communion:

- Lab-grown flesh.
- Human-derived food.
- Digital identity required to eat.
- Flesh without soul.

The Soylent Green conspiracy is not a theory—it’s a prophecy unfolding.

So what do you choose?

- Flesh that lives forever in Christ?
- Or synthetic flesh that dies in the Beast?

Because when food becomes flesh, and flesh becomes programmable, only those grounded in the truth will survive the deception.

8 of 9: The Soy lent Green Conspiracy – The Communion Counterfeit: Satan’s Twisted Supper

“This is my body... this is my blood...” – Matthew 26:26–28

Introduction: The Table of Two Masters

In the sacred upper room, Jesus broke bread and passed the cup, saying, “Take, eat; this is my body... Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood...” (Matthew 26:26–28). This holy act, known as the Lord’s Supper, became the centerpiece of Christian remembrance and communion. It is a symbol of sacrificial love, substitutionary death, and spiritual nourishment from heaven.

But wherever God establishes something sacred, Satan counterfeits it.

What God gave as spiritual life, Satan distorts into spiritual death. While Christ gave His own flesh and blood for us, the devil offers a twisted communion—where others’ flesh is consumed in rituals, in systems, and in cultures that celebrate death, power, and self-preservation.

This essay exposes the Communion Counterfeit—how Satan has imitated, perverted, and weaponized the sacred act of communion into systems of consumption, occult practice, and mass deception. From dark rituals to medical exploitation, from pop culture to transhumanist ideology, the world is being drawn to a different table.

And if you don’t discern the difference, you may find yourself partaking at the wrong supper.

Section 1: The True Communion – Christ’s Body and Blood

Let us begin with the true, biblical act of communion.

“And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took the cup... saying, Drink ye all of it; For this is my blood of the new testament...” – Matthew 26:26–28

This act had spiritual significance:

- It commemorated Christ’s coming death.
- It symbolized a new covenant through His blood.

- It reminded His followers of the cost of salvation.
- It provided spiritual nourishment for those born again.

The bread was His body, broken for us.

The cup was His blood, shed for us.

Jesus made it clear: unless one spiritually partakes of Him—believes in His death, burial, and resurrection—they have no life (see John 6:53–56). The act was deeply symbolic but represented a very real internal reality: the indwelling of Christ by faith.

Section 2: Satan’s Strategy – Always a Counterfeit

From the beginning, Satan has never created anything. He only counterfeits, corrupts, and mimics.

- God gives truth; Satan offers lies.
- God establishes a covenant; Satan mocks it with ritual blood pacts.
- God gives prophets; Satan gives mediums.
- God gives communion; Satan gives consumption.

Where Christ says, “Eat of me and live,”
Satan whispers, “Eat others and survive.”

The Communion Counterfeit is subtle. It may appear religious, ritualistic, or even scientific—but its heart is the same: self-preservation through the destruction of others.

Satan’s twisted supper is about:

- Consuming others’ lives for your power.
- Feeding on innocence for your pleasure.
- Substituting Christ’s sacrifice with man’s manipulation.

It may look modern. But it’s ancient sorcery dressed in lab coats and media campaigns.

Section 3: John 6:53–56 – The Line of Separation

Jesus shocked His followers in John 6 by saying:

“Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you... For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.”

Many walked away. They couldn't grasp the spiritual meaning. Christ was not advocating cannibalism—He was offering spiritual union through belief in His redemptive work.

Yet this passage is frequently twisted by the occult:

- Satanists and Luciferians interpret it literally, advocating rituals of blood drinking.
- Some esoteric schools practice mock communions involving symbolic or real consumption of flesh-like substances.
- Dark rituals simulate or involve bloodletting to “absorb” energy, life force, or demonic power.

The world misunderstands Christ's words, but Satan exploits that misunderstanding to introduce his own version.

In Satan's version:

- The flesh is not His—it's yours.
- The blood is not given—it's taken.
- The act is not sacrificial—it's sorcerous.

Section 4: Occult Rituals – The Twisted Supper Revealed

In deep occult circles, ritual consumption is real. Documented cases and whistleblower testimonies describe:

- Ceremonies where victims are symbolically or literally consumed.
- Acts involving the drinking of blood to gain “power.”
- Simulated Eucharists where demonic pacts are made.

These rituals mock the Last Supper.

Instead of remembering a Savior who died in love, they celebrate domination, control, and dark transformation.

Satan's table is full of:

- Innocent blood.

- Perverted communion.
- Twisted offerings.

Whether literal or symbolic, the goal is the same: feed on the innocent to sustain the wicked.

This aligns exactly with Micah 3:3:

“Who also eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them...”

It is a reversal of Christ’s work. A demonic communion where death replaces life, and pride replaces humility.

Section 5: Modern Systems – Communion Counterfeit in Culture

The counterfeit isn’t confined to ritual. It has infiltrated global systems.

Pharmaceuticals

- Vaccines and products tested on or derived from aborted fetal cell lines.
- Life is not offered, but taken.
- The body becomes a laboratory for harvesting and injection.

Media & Entertainment

- Pop stars perform communion-style rituals on stage—mocking Christ’s death.
- Music videos show symbolic blood drinking, human sacrifice, and “sacred meals” with dark overtones.
- Series like The Chilling Adventures of Sabrina, American Horror Story, or Midnight Mass blur Christianity with cannibalistic and demonic themes.

Bioengineering & Food

- Lab-grown meat technologies explore human-derived cells.
- Artists simulate eating human flesh for “art” and “sustainability.”
- Products like Soylent (ironically named) desensitize consumers to the concept of consuming processed human life.

The pattern is this:

Replace Christ's communion with a man-made, death-based, permission-based sacrament of the state and the Beast.

Section 6: Revelation 17–18 – The Whore's Table

In Revelation, Babylon the Great—the mother of abominations—is pictured holding a golden cup full of filth and fornication.

“And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints...” – Revelation 17:6

She does not drink wine. She drinks blood. She feasts on the souls of men (Revelation 18:13). Her economy is based on:

- Human trafficking.
- Exploitation.
- Worship of wealth and image.

This is Satan's communion. The cup is not symbolic of grace—it is full of slaughter, ritual, and seduction. And all the kings of the earth drink with her.

The world is now preparing to sit at that table:

- Normalizing pedophilia (minor-attracted persons).
- Redefining human life.
- Merging medicine, media, and occult.
- Promoting “future foods” with unethical origins.

But true believers are called out:

“Come out of her, my people...” – Revelation 18:4

You cannot sit at both tables:

“Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils...” – 1 Corinthians 10:21

Section 7: The Eucharist War – False Religions Join In

False Christian systems also mimic and pervert communion.

Roman Catholicism

- Claims the bread literally becomes the body of Christ (transubstantiation).
- The Mass is offered repeatedly—denying the sufficiency of the Cross.
- The wafer is housed in a golden sunburst, reflecting ancient pagan sun worship.
- Priests “sacrifice Christ” on altars—an abomination against Hebrews 10:10.

This is not true communion—it is sacralized cannibalism, clothed in ritual and tradition.

New Age & Eastern Religions

- Teach “oneness with the universe” through absorption of energy.
- Some promote blood energy work, vampirism, or channeling of “spirit life.”

All these are false communions. They offer a relationship without repentance, power without the cross, and life apart from Christ.

Section 8: The Final Supper – Marriage or Mayhem?

The Bible speaks of two final feasts:

1. The Marriage Supper of the Lamb (Revelation 19:9)

- For the redeemed.
- Where Christ fellowships with His bride.
- A celebration of eternal life, victory, and joy.

2. The Supper of the Great God (Revelation 19:17–18)

- A feast where the birds eat the flesh of kings, captains, and the wicked.
- A gruesome end for those who rejected God.
- A mirror image of judgment.

You will attend one of these. Either as guest or meal.

Christ offers His body, so you can be born again.

Satan offers someone else’s, so you can remain dead while feeding your ego.

You must choose your table.

Conclusion: Discern the Supper

The Communion Counterfeit is real. It's not just ritual. It's everywhere:

- In the products we consume.
- In the culture we absorb.
- In the systems we trust.
- In the worship we tolerate.

Satan's supper is always offered:

- Power through domination.
- Life through death.
- Self through sacrifice of others.

But Jesus says:

"I am the bread of life... the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world." – John 6:51

Only one body was broken for your sins.

Only one blood redeems.

Only one communion saves.

So eat of Him—and live.

9 of 9: The Soylent Green Conspiracy – The End Game: When Man Becomes Meat

"And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger..." – John 6:35

Introduction: Where the Flesh Leads Without God

We've come to the end of this series—an investigation that began with a fictional film and unraveled into prophetic reality. What once seemed distant and dystopian now stands knocking at the door of every human soul.

The question is no longer "Could it happen?"

The question is: Is this where the world is heading—when man becomes meat?

The lines between food and flesh, technology and humanity, consumption and identity have never been more blurred. From AI-driven food distribution to synthetic biology, from famine being weaponized to population reduction quietly accepted, humanity now stands at a threshold that few are willing to see, but many will be forced to cross.

This final essay will uncover:

- How modern systems are preparing the world for mass consumption of humanity.
- How elites, AI, and technocrats are laying the groundwork for a world where people are the product.
- What whistleblowers and insiders are revealing behind the curtain.
- And ultimately, why the only escape is Christ—the Bread of Life.

Section 1: Man as Meat – The Unthinkable Made Thinkable

Let's begin with what we've all seen in this series so far:

- A real food product named “Soylent,” derived from a film where people unknowingly eat human remains.
- Fetal cell lines used in vaccine and flavor testing.
- Lab-grown “ethical” meat developed from human cheek cells.
- Ritualistic cannibalism in elite circles, rebranded as performance art or novelty cuisine.
- Cultural desensitization through jokes, movies, and symbolism.

The world's appetite has changed—not just for food, but for power over life and death. And in this inverted value system, humanity is no longer sacred. It is material. Editable, consumable, expendable.

Satan's ultimate goal is to dehumanize mankind, to strip the Imago Dei—the image of God—from the flesh, and repackage it into meat for the machine.

This is not about food.

It is about identity, control, and consumption.

Section 2: AI-Run Food Systems and Synthetic Supply Chains

As global supply chains buckle under the strain of war, politics, and policy, new systems are rising—and they’re not run by farmers or families. They’re run by algorithms.

AI-run food systems now:

- Predict and control distribution routes.
- Monitor food purchasing through smart IDs and digital wallets.
- Determine agricultural trends and livestock breeding.
- Oversee production of lab-grown meat and genetically edited crops.

These systems are praised as “efficient,” but they are centralized and weaponizable.

Imagine this scenario:

- You don’t eat unless your digital ID is approved.
- You can’t grow your own food without climate regulation licenses.
- Your dietary intake is monitored, and your meat ration depends on social credit scores.

This is not fiction—it’s already happening in prototype forms across China, the EU, and pilot programs in the U.S. under sustainability frameworks.

“And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark...” – Revelation 13:17

The Beast doesn’t need to force people to worship—it just needs to control their food.

Section 3: Famine as a Weapon

The Bible foretells that famine will be one of the judgments in the last days (Matthew 24:7, Revelation 6:6–8). But famine in the modern era is rarely due to natural scarcity. It is engineered.

Today we are seeing:

- Intentional crop destruction through policy and “climate emergency” measures.
- Culling of livestock under the guise of carbon footprint reduction.
- Farmland buyouts by corporate billionaires (e.g., Bill Gates as one of the largest private farmland owners in the U.S.).

- Food processing plant fires, mysterious accidents, and logistic breakdowns with eerie timing.

Meanwhile, the promoted solution is always the same:

- “Eat bugs.”
- “Grow meat in a lab.”
- “Trust the system.”

It mirrors Pharaoh’s strategy in Egypt: centralize food during crisis so the people sell their land, freedom, and bodies for survival (Genesis 47:13–21).

Today’s technocrats don’t want you dead—they want you processed.

Because when man becomes meat, power is maximized.

Section 4: Whistleblowers & the Confessions of the Powerful

Multiple whistleblowers and former insiders have spoken about what happens behind the scenes in biotech, pharma, and elite circles:

- Dr. Ardis spoke out about venom-based compounds being hidden in food and drugs.
- David Martin revealed patent trails that show viruses, vaccines, and synthetic food technologies were planned decades in advance.
- Planned Parenthood insiders revealed baby parts being sold “per specimen” for testing and food development.
- Hollywood defectors describe simulated and actual ritual meals that mimic Christian communion, but with blood, flesh, and demonic invocation.

The confessions point to one overarching reality:

The world’s most powerful people are obsessed with feeding on humanity—symbolically and literally.

“They eat the flesh of my people...” – Micah 3:3

What’s coming isn’t accidental. It’s intentional. And it all leads to a world where the masses are farmed, not just governed.

Section 5: Cloning, Human Composting, and the Redefinition of Flesh

We've already crossed major lines:

- Cloning of animals is normalized.
- CRISPR gene editing in human embryos has been done.
- Human composting is legalized in multiple U.S. states.
- Synthetic flesh products that simulate cannibalism are available for “art” or “sustainability.”

Soon we'll see:

- Synthetic surrogates born entirely from bioreactors.
- Flesh designed by code, not chromosomes.
- Flesh consumed without conscience, because the spiritual significance is gone.

When the soul is no longer seen as real, the body becomes currency.

Satan doesn't need to drag people into witchcraft anymore. He just needs them desensitized—laughing at their own dehumanization while biting into a burger grown from human cells.

Section 6: The Mass Market of the Soul

In Revelation 18, the great system of Babylon collapses. The merchants weep—not over truth or judgment—but because their “merchandise” is lost.

“...cinnamon, and odours, and ointments... and slaves, and souls of men.” – Revelation 18:13

The soul is sold. It is listed next to goods and gold. This is the end game: not just eating flesh, but buying and selling souls.

How is this done today?

- Through pornography—trading sacred intimacy for profit.
- Through media addiction—feeding on trauma and stimulation.
- Through medical slavery—people becoming research vessels.
- Through digital avatars—identity as product.

People become data, donors, downloads, and dishes.

The body is eaten.

The soul is sold.

The conscience is seared.

The system is full.

Section 7: You Are What You Eat – Spiritually Speaking

Jesus said:

“I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger...” – John 6:35

In contrast, the world says:

- “Eat what we make.”
- “Trust what we grow.”
- “Survive at any cost.”

But what you feed on shapes you.

If you feed on:

- Death, you will live in fear.
- Lies, you will speak delusion.
- Flesh, you will die in the flesh.

But if you feed on Christ—His Word, His Spirit, His truth—you will live forever.

The table you choose determines your eternity.

Section 8: A Final Call – Choose the Living Bread

We are now in the age of the Bread of Men:

- Human-developed, AI-managed, conscience-free consumption.
- Food with no life, no soul, no truth.
- Survival through submission to the Beast.

But Christ offers something else:

“Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life. I am that bread of life.” – John 6:47–48

The choice is clear:

- Bread of men... or Bread of Heaven?
- Processed flesh... or Living Word?
- Table of devils... or Supper of the Lamb?

Conclusion: When Man Becomes Meat, Only Christ Remains

We are watching the end game unfold:

- Man is being rewritten as meat.
- Systems are being built to process him.
- Famine is being used to enslave him.
- The soul is being packaged, bought, and sold.

The world is not just falling.

It is feeding on itself.

But there is still time. There is still bread in Bethlehem.

Jesus Christ remains the only food that satisfies eternally.

He is not processed. He is pierced.

He is not synthetic. He is sinless.

He is not grown in a lab. He was born in a manger.

And He is coming again—not to be consumed, but to reign.

“Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb.” – Revelation 19:9

So come to the table while there is time.

Before you become part of the wrong one.

Series Conclusion: You Are the Product, or You Are the Purchased

We have followed the breadcrumbs from prophecy to policy, from ritual to retail, and from the sacred to the synthetic. And now, the veil is off.

This world is not evolving. It is devolving into consumption.

Not consumption of resources—but of people.

- The elite no longer govern. They feed.
- The weak are no longer protected. They are processed.
- Food is no longer grown. It is cultured from cells and control.
- Flesh is no longer sacred. It is synthetic, harvested, or cloned.

We now live in a system where the innocent are commodified, the human body is redesigned, and the soul is up for sale. The Beast system is not coming. It's already feeding—spiritually, economically, and literally.

“They eat up my people, as they eat bread.” – Psalm 14:4

“This is my body... this is my blood.” – Jesus Christ

Two tables.

Two meals.

Two destinies.

In the end, everyone communes—but only one table leads to life.

You can dine with the world and be devoured by it.

Or you can dine with Christ, the Bread of Life, and live forever.

You are either consumed...

Or you are sealed.
