

What Lies Beneath

Series 1-12

By Paul Tackett

VerseQuest Ministries

What Lies Beneath – Series Introduction

Unveiling the Hidden Realms Below Our Feet

Beneath our cities, beneath our nations, beneath the very surface of the earth we take for granted—there is a world few dare to imagine and even fewer are willing to acknowledge. It is a world whispered of in ancient texts, hinted at by the groaning of the ground, and depicted in art, myth, and architecture from civilizations long buried and long gone. But the Bible has never been silent about it. In fact, it has spoken of it from the very beginning—with clarity, judgment, and warning.

The purpose of this twelve-part series is not to tickle curiosity with conspiracy. It is to confront the horrifying yet vital truth that something lies beneath—and it is not merely geological.

God’s Word declares that the earth has depths (Psalm 63:9), that hell is beneath (Isaiah 14:9), that fallen angels have been imprisoned in chains in darkness (2 Peter 2:4), and that a bottomless pit will one day open and pour forth torment onto the earth (Revelation 9). These are not metaphors. These are realities in the spiritual realm, which increasingly bleed into the physical as we approach the last days.

This is not speculative theology. It is an exposé of a biblical mystery—a journey into the abyss where Scripture intersects with history, modern testimony, and prophetic foresight. It is a confrontation with the forgotten past and a warning of the near future.

The twelve essays in this series trace an unfolding descent:

- From the strange global “hum” and unexplained subterranean sounds heard worldwide,
- To the rediscovery of underground cities like Derinkuyu in Turkey,
- To the tunnels beneath every modern city, whose existence authorities can’t explain,
- To Deep Underground Military Bases (DUMBs) rumored to house not just technology, but rituals and rebellion,

- To the emergence of Apollyon from the bottomless pit,
- To the lowest hell, where the enemies of God are sealed and await their final judgment.

Each essay is crafted not just with research, but with biblical discernment—weaving ancient prophecy with modern patterns, spiritual warfare with geopolitical maneuvering, historical record with doctrinal truth.

You'll find that mythologies like Agartha and Shambhala, far from being mere fairy tales, carry haunting echoes of spiritual prisons described in the Word.

You'll see how Hollywood's obsession with tunnels, descents, and monsters from beneath is not coincidence—it is conditioning, a disguised disclosure, or perhaps even unintended prophecy.

You'll read how even police in small towns admit to tunnel systems they can't explain.

You'll hear how the Bible uses worms, pits, and chambers not poetically, but as spatial descriptions of spiritual imprisonment.

And you'll understand that the lowest hell is not merely a place of fire—but a layered, judicial structure where rebellion is held, exposed, and judged.

This is not entertainment.

This is biblical intelligence for the end-times believer—a call to spiritual awareness in a world digging itself toward destruction.

If you've ever felt the rumble under your feet...

If you've ever sensed that there's more beneath the headlines, more under the cities, more beneath the mountains, more under the oceans, more behind the veil...

Then this series is for you.

What lies beneath is real.

But so is the One who holds the keys.

He has descended, and He has risen.

He is coming again—this time, not to open the prison, but to seal it shut forever.

Let the descent begin.

1 of 12: What Lies Beneath – The Noise in the Deep

There's something I need to share, and I don't say that lightly.

Over the years, I've learned to trust what I see, hear, and experience—because too often, the world wants to convince you to ignore the obvious, dismiss what's right in front of you, or gaslight you into thinking it's all in your head. But what happens when what you're hearing isn't just in your head—but beneath your feet?

This may not be one of those posts that fits in a neat box or closes with an easy answer. This is one of those open-door essays—me laying out the facts, experiences, and Scripture for you to consider. Because lately, the question I keep coming back to is:

What is going on beneath us?

A Sound You Can't Un-Hear

Let me take you back. I was at home, everything quiet, nothing running—no TV, no appliances, no fan. And yet, there it was.

A low hum. Constant. Deep. Mechanical.

But here's the thing—it wasn't in the house. It wasn't outside the house. It was everywhere and nowhere. It seemed to come from beneath.

I stood still. I moved from room to room. No change. I checked everything that could possibly be making a noise. Nothing. And then it hit me—this wasn't the hum of electronics or traffic. It was like the earth itself was murmuring, and it wasn't subtle. It was persistent. Subtle enough that many might ignore it—but once you hear it, you can't un-hear it.

At first, I thought maybe it was a one-time thing. Maybe I was tired. Maybe my ears were playing tricks on me. But then it came again. And again. Some nights, I'd lie in bed and feel like the ground itself was vibrating with something it wasn't allowed to speak.

And then came the banging.

Not Just a Hum—A Bang in the Deep

Recently, things took a turn.

Out of nowhere, I started hearing deep, metallic banging sounds, like someone pounding on rock with a giant mallet. It wasn't thunder. No storms. No construction. It didn't even sound like it was on the surface. It was underneath—beneath the yard, beneath the street. As if something below was trying to get out... or deeper in.

I listened closely. It was rhythmic. Intentional. Not like pipes clanging. It wasn't random. It had purpose.

Now, listen—I've lived long enough not to run off making wild claims. But I also believe in not burying what's real. Because the more I talk to people, the more I hear they've been hearing it too. Some call it "the Hum." Others don't know what to call it. But here's the point:

People around the world are reporting the same thing—and many of them live nowhere near each other. Different continents. Different cultures. Same sound.

And I can't help but ask:

What's beneath us... and why is it making noise?

The Global "Hum" Phenomenon

The strange thing is, this hum has been reported in dozens of places across the world. They've got names for it:

- The Taos Hum in New Mexico
- The Bristol Hum in the UK
- Wellington, New Zealand
- British Columbia, Canada
- Kokomo, Indiana

People describe it as a low-frequency, droning vibration that often gets stronger at night. Some say it sounds like a diesel engine idling far in the distance. Others say it's more like a mechanical whine.

And here's the kicker:

In many of these places, the sound can't be picked up by microphones.

It's not tinnitus either—because multiple people in the same location hear it at the same time.

Theories range from secret military activity to seismic shifts to electromagnetic weaponry. But no one can say for sure what it is—or why it's only heard by certain people.

That alone should raise some eyebrows.

The Policeman's Confession

Now let me tell you something that shook me years ago.

Back when I lived in a small town in Ohio, I had a casual conversation with a local police officer. Just small talk at first, and somehow we got on the subject of strange things in town. He leaned in a little and told me something I've never forgotten.

He said:

“There are tunnels beneath this town that go in every direction. Some of them, we don't even know where they go or how they got there.”

Let me pause right there.

This wasn't New York City. This wasn't Washington D.C. This was a small Midwest town. And here you had law enforcement admitting that the city sat on a vast, hidden network of tunnels that aren't even fully mapped or understood.

So if that's happening in my small town...

What in the world is going on in the big cities?

The Bible Says: They Dig Into Hell

If you think this is just modern paranoia, let me show you what Scripture says. Because the Word of God has been warning us about the “underground” for a long time.

“Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down.” – Amos 9:2

God sees them.

Even if they think they can hide below the surface, He sees what man tries to bury—and what evil is trying to rise from beneath.

And let's not forget:

“For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.” – Romans 8:22

The earth itself is groaning.

Some people think that means earthquakes. Others think volcanoes. But what if it's more than that?

What if the hum... the banging... the vibration... is the planet itself reacting to spiritual warfare, corruption, and the weight of judgment building?

The Hidden, the Suppressed, and the Spiritual

Now, some might be tempted to say, "Well, it's just seismic activity. Just the earth settling." But then why is it happening in patterns? Why are people hearing mechanical noises, not natural ones?

Why are sealed-off underground tunnels being discovered in almost every major city?

You ever wonder why Hollywood is obsessed with underground bases, hidden chambers, and secret labs beneath cities? From Stranger Things to The Island to The Descent—it's all over. Is that just entertainment? Or predictive programming—preparing the public to accept that these places exist?

"If You Knew What Went On at Night..."

Let me tell you one more story.

Back in the late '80s or early '90s, I was with some friends playing cards. One of them had an uncle there—quiet guy, military man. Not just any military—a colonel in the Air Force.

We were just chatting, casual stuff. Then out of nowhere, he said:

"If you knew what went on at night in this country, you'd never sleep."

He said it so flatly. No smirk. No punchline. Just truth hanging in the air like a bomb.

He didn't elaborate. He didn't need to.

That moment stuck with me for decades. Because as I get older, I've started to believe that he wasn't just talking about foreign threats or classified missions. He was talking about what happens underground.

At night.

In the shadows.

Under our very feet.

Could the “Noise” Be Construction?

Let’s say, for a moment, that all these hums and bangs are manmade. What would that imply?

- Someone is digging.
- Someone is tunneling.
- Someone is expanding something large and hidden.

The Deep Underground Military Base (DUMB) theory suggests there’s an entire world below us—military cities, transportation tubes, black sites, bunkers—built away from public eyes.

Why?

To operate in secrecy. To store things they don’t want you to see. To prepare for a future you aren’t being told about.

Maybe that hum you hear isn’t a machine malfunction.

Maybe it’s a machine tunneling under your feet.

Or Is It Spiritual?

But here’s another angle—what if the noise isn’t from human activity?

What if it’s something spiritual trying to emerge?

The Bible speaks of the “bottomless pit,” a realm below the surface where demons are imprisoned until the appointed time. Revelation 9 talks about a star falling from heaven and opening the pit—with smoke, locust-like creatures, and chaos pouring out.

Job 26:5 says:

“Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.”

Micah 7:17 says:

“They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth...”

The spiritual world isn't some floating fog in the clouds. It has depth, levels, and structure. And it's very possible that some of what lies beneath us isn't of this earth—or at least, not anymore.

I'm Not Saying, I'm Just Saying...

Let me be clear:

I'm not claiming to have all the answers.

I'm not trying to scare anyone.

But I am trying to say:

Let's not ignore what we're experiencing.

If I hear something—and others do too—and if Scripture hints at it... and if history, architecture, testimony, and media all point in the same direction... then maybe it's not a coincidence.

Maybe it's time to ask what we're really standing on.

Because the noise in the deep is getting louder.

Your Turn: Have You Heard It?

If you've heard it, I want to hear from you.

- Have you experienced the hum?
- Have you heard banging in the night?
- Have you felt vibrations when nothing was happening?
- Have you ever heard stories like the ones I've shared?

Don't be silent. Share. Because when we speak up, the darkness loses its power.

A Final Word: Stay Alert

The Bible says in Luke 8:17:

“For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither anything hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.”

We serve a God who sees everything—above, below, and in between.

Whatever's happening beneath us—whether it's military, spiritual, or a mix of both—it's not hidden from Him. And in due time, it won't be hidden from us either.

Stay awake. Stay alert.

And keep asking the hard questions.

Because the truth doesn't lie on the surface anymore.

It lies beneath.

2 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Buried Cities, Forgotten Truths – The Mud Flood Connection

There's something oddly consistent about truth when it's buried—it always tries to rise again. And in the case of buried cities, some truths are trying to claw their way to the surface right under our feet.

This essay is not just about strange architecture or mysterious basements. It's about a larger question we're being forced to confront as more people around the world wake up and begin asking:

What came before us that's been deliberately hidden?

The idea of the mud flood isn't just a fringe theory anymore. It's an observation. And when something shows up globally, across nations, continents, and centuries—it demands a closer look.

We're told civilization is a straight line: primitive cave dwellers to Romans to Enlightenment thinkers to iPhones. But what if that timeline is broken? What if our cities were built not from scratch—but on top of something else? Something buried. Something covered. Something judged.

This isn't about proving every corner of the theory—but opening our eyes to what's right in front of us and buried just beneath.

The Ground-Level Lie

Let's start with something we can all observe, even in our own towns and cities:

Why do so many buildings have entire windows, doors, or even full floors below street level?

Have you ever walked past a row of buildings—maybe in an older part of town—and noticed windows half-submerged in the dirt? Sometimes even entire doorways sunken beneath steps or sidewalks?

We're told that this is just how construction worked in the 1800s. That basements were designed this way for ventilation or insulation. But then why do many of those windows have ornate details, clearly meant to be seen?

Why are main floor doorways now underground, accessed only by awkward stairs? Why do sealed windows line the sides of buildings with no purpose—unless at one point they were open to light and street-level air?

Ask yourself this: if you were designing a building from scratch—would you intentionally design decorated windows or doors facing into the dirt?

This isn't a few cities. This is global.

You see it in:

- London
- Paris
- St. Petersburg
- New York
- Philadelphia
- San Francisco
- Even small-town America

Entire “basements” that aren't really basements at all—but first floors buried beneath a layer of earth.

And it raises the question:

What event caused so many buildings across the world to be partially buried in a consistent way?

Layers of a Lost Civilization

Some believe this points to what's now being called the Mud Flood theory—a hypothesis that a major global cataclysm, possibly in the 1800s or earlier, caused mass destruction and covered entire cities in layers of mud, debris, and water.

Not just flooding. Judgment.

The idea isn't that every city was flooded by water, but that a liquid or mud-like wave blanketed the earth, resetting history and burying evidence of a previous civilization.

Some propose the flood was manmade. Others say it was divine. Either way, it leaves behind:

- Buried floors
- Sunken buildings
- Cities built on top of other cities
- Forgotten architecture, now labeled “antique” but never truly explained

You don't have to believe every part of the theory to ask a reasonable question:

Why is the historical record so quiet about all these buried buildings?

How is it that nobody seems to know when they were built... yet they're still standing?

How is it that ornate stonework—something supposedly unaffordable to modern cities—was everywhere in the 1800s, built by supposed pioneers with horse carts and hand tools?

The deeper you dig—literally and historically—the more you start to realize something doesn't add up.

Sub-Basements and Sealed Secrets

Let's talk about sub-basements—levels below the ground floor that often aren't on public blueprints and don't serve any practical purpose anymore.

Why do buildings have:

- Staircases that lead to bricked-off walls?
- Hallways that are sealed behind metal doors?
- Entire vaults that no one remembers being constructed?

These aren't just myths. People who've explored old buildings—particularly those in major cities—have recorded these sealed-off areas. They're there. Often untouched for a century. In some cases, people have discovered:

- Antique furniture
- Blackened light fixtures
- Cast iron fireplaces
- Old signage
- Even evidence of previous inhabitants far older than the official history claims

If you've never looked into the "old world architecture" discussion, you might be stunned to find that many of the buildings we attribute to post-colonial America look far older, far more intricate, and far more advanced than they should be—especially for their time period.

Why does a supposedly "frontier" city like Chicago have architecture that rivals Rome?

How did the 1893 Chicago World's Fair go from empty field to 600-acre "White City" in just 2 years—using horse carts and candlelight?

And why was it demolished immediately after?

We're being told that we built these architectural marvels just to tear them down... or that we built atop ruins without asking what came before.

That's not incompetence. That's a cover-up.

The Reset Pattern: A Biblical Lens

Now, let's step back from speculation for a moment and ask a deeper question: Does the Bible speak of cities being buried, judged, or hidden by catastrophe?

Absolutely.

1. Sodom and Gomorrah – Genesis 19

These cities were completely overthrown by divine judgment. Fire and brimstone rained from the sky. They weren't just destroyed—they were buried in such a way that only in modern times are archaeologists starting to locate what they believe are remnants of Sodom beneath layers of ash and sulfur.

2. The Tower of Babel – Genesis 11

Man's attempt to build upward was met with a divine act that stopped them cold. While the judgment here was linguistic, many Jewish and ancient sources imply the physical structure was also torn down. Some believe that parts of Babel's foundation lie beneath Babylon, Nineveh, or modern Iraq—buried, covered, and inaccessible.

3. Jericho – Joshua 6

The walls fell flat. But more interestingly, parts of Jericho's ruins appear sunken rather than simply flattened. As if the city was crushed and buried.

4. Capernaum, Bethsaida, and Chorazin – Matthew 11

Jesus cursed these cities for their unbelief, saying they would be brought “down to hell.” This wasn't poetic language—it was prophecy. Many of these cities lie in ruin and obscurity today, literally buried in volcanic basalt and time.

5. Revelation 16:19

In the last days, “the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell.” These are literal urban collapses tied to judgment. The Bible tells us plainly that entire cities will fall again.

So when we find buried cities, sunken buildings, and half-hidden architecture—should we really be surprised?

Judgment leaves fingerprints. And sometimes, it leaves layers of sediment and silence.

A Spiritual Interpretation of the Mud

If you believe the Word of God, then you know that mud and mire are not just natural elements—they are spiritual metaphors.

The Bible talks about:

- The mire of sin
- The pit
- The “clay” from which man was formed
- The “miry clay” that God lifts us out of (Psalm 40:2)

When God judges, He often does so by returning man to the dirt—not just in death, but in burial of prideful cities and nations.

It makes perfect sense that when a civilization grows too arrogant, too corrupt, too full of itself—God buries it.

Not always with fire. Sometimes with silence. Sometimes with earth.

And what better way to warn future generations than to leave their spires and windows sticking halfway out of the dirt?

Layers of Lies: The Rewrite of History

Let's entertain a thought: What if there really was a great reset—not the one Klaus Schwab is salivating over, but one that already happened?

Let's say:

- A global catastrophe occurred—mud flood, seismic disaster, or divine event
- Major cities were buried, destroyed, or swallowed
- Survivors found remnants and built on top of them
- And over time, a new narrative was written—one that erased what came before

That would explain:

- The orphan trains of the 1800s—why were so many children “relocated”?
- The destruction of “World’s Fair” architecture—why build and destroy entire cities in months?
- The simultaneous fires in cities like Chicago, Boston, and San Francisco—were they really fires, or cover stories for demolitions?
- The strange absence of historical documentation between 1700–1850 in many regions

What if we're not the most advanced civilization?

What if we're the survivors of something greater—something more advanced—and we're walking on top of its grave?

The Implications for Today

Why does this matter?

Because if this world has already been judged once before—not just in Noah's flood, but in regional, global resets—then what does that mean for us?

It means:

- We're not the first.
- We may not be the last.
- And history is not what we think it is.

It means the rise and fall of cities isn't just cyclical—it's intentional.

God judges. And when He does, He buries the proud.

Isaiah 26:5 says:

“For he bringeth down them that dwell on high; the lofty city, he layeth it low; he layeth it low, even to the ground; he bringeth it even to the dust.”

We are literally walking on layers of judgment.

Beneath our skyscrapers lie churches, temples, halls, and houses no one ever told us about. And deeper still lie the bones of those who refused to repent.

Final Reflection: The City and the Pit

We must remember that Babel wasn't judged for being tall—it was judged for trying to reach heaven without God.

Today's cities are no different.

Man continues to build, elevate, dig, and design—forgetting that every tower has a tipping point and every society has a shovel in its hand, digging either toward progress or judgment.

The mud flood may be debated.

But the evidence is everywhere.

So next time you see a buried window, a sunken door, or a floor below the floor—don't just ask what's under it.

Ask what God covered up... and why.

Because sometimes the ruins whisper more truth than the textbooks.

And the buried always speak—if you're willing to dig.

3 of 12: What Lies Beneath – DUMBs and the Deep State – Secrets Under Our Feet

If you've followed this series so far, you know we've gone from strange sounds underground to buried cities hidden beneath our streets. But what if the next layer isn't an ancient ruin or a biblical city under judgment—what if it's something much more recent... and much more active?

What if, beneath the noise and dust, there's a network of highly classified operations happening right now—right underneath us?

In this essay, we go deep. Not just in depth, but into the very ground itself—exploring the world of Deep Underground Military Bases, or DUMBs for short. We'll investigate whistleblower claims, explore known installations, examine black budget funding, and shine the light of God's Word on one of the most secretive networks on Earth.

Because while the world argues about politics, elections, and social media drama—something far bigger is moving underground.

What Are DUMBs?

Let's start with the basics. DUMBs are not science fiction. These are real, highly fortified, often multi-level installations built deep beneath the surface of the Earth.

They're said to include:

- Command and control centers
- Military research labs
- Cloning and genetic engineering facilities
- Advanced propulsion and energy tech development
- Emergency shelter cities for elites
- Transit tunnels for high-speed magnetic trains

While this sounds like something out of a Tom Clancy novel, there's substantial evidence that DUMBs exist and are far more widespread than most people realize.

The term "Deep Underground Military Base" might be new to some, but the practice of building underground facilities is not. Governments have been digging and hiding since World War II. It's just that now—thanks to black budgets, secrecy classifications, and spiritual blindness—most people don't even know what's beneath their own feet.

We're talking about tunnels that span hundreds of miles, linking cities, bases, and "unknown zones" with no access to the public.

In a country that can't fix its potholes, somehow we're to believe these tunnels are just rumors?

Let's follow the evidence.

The Whistleblowers: Phil Schneider and Beyond

One of the most controversial figures in this discussion is Phil Schneider.

A former government geologist and structural engineer, Schneider claimed to have been involved in the construction of underground bases for the U.S. government, including one in Dulce, New Mexico—a location we'll talk more about in a moment.

In the mid-1990s, Schneider began speaking out publicly, claiming:

- He worked on over 13 underground bases
- Many of these bases were connected by high-speed maglev trains
- The U.S. government had encountered non-human entities underground
- A 1979 battle at Dulce Base resulted in dozens of military deaths, and he himself was injured (he had visible missing fingers and chest scars)
- He had top-level security clearance and saw evidence of alien-human joint experiments

Now, whether you believe all of Schneider's claims or not, what can't be ignored is that he was found dead in 1996 under highly suspicious circumstances—ruled a suicide despite his explicit claims that "if I ever commit suicide, it wasn't me."

He's not alone. Others have tried to speak out and disappeared, lost their jobs, or been discredited. Even members of Congress have admitted that parts of the federal budget are so deeply classified that even they can't access the information.

The question remains: what's so secret that entire underground cities must be built to contain it?

Known Installations (That We're Allowed to Know About)

Let's move from theory to confirmed reality.

There are multiple verified deep underground facilities operated by the U.S. military and government. These include:

1. Cheyenne Mountain Complex – Colorado

- Located under 2,000 feet of granite
- Built to survive a 30-megaton nuclear blast
- Serves as NORAD's alternate command center
- Includes miles of tunnels, steel buildings on springs, and air purification systems
- Known to house command and control systems during emergencies

2. Mount Weather – Virginia

- Officially: FEMA's emergency operations center
- Unofficially: An elite safe haven for government officials during national collapse
- Alleged to have multiple sub-levels, luxury accommodations, and secure transit connections

3. Dulce Base – New Mexico

- Publicly denied
- Rumored to be a multi-level facility beneath Archuleta Mesa
- Alleged site of the Schneider confrontation and genetic experiments
- Native locals and former base employees have reported unusual aircraft, deep drilling sounds, and restricted access zones

4. Raven Rock (Site R) – Pennsylvania/Maryland Border

- Also known as the “underground Pentagon”
- Hidden under a mountain near Waynesboro
- Connected to Fort Detrick and other bases via underground passageways
- Said to have dormitories, offices, and a working communication grid for government continuity

5. Denver International Airport – Colorado

- Known for bizarre artwork, Masonic symbolism, and odd runway design
- Massive underground tunnels and buildings beneath the public airport
- Construction went billions over budget and opened years late
- Whistleblowers claim it’s a cover for a deep-state command center and elite fallout shelter

These are just the known or semi-known ones.

Now imagine what’s not acknowledged.

Tunnel Networks and High-Speed Transit

One of the most fascinating aspects of DUMBs is the underground transit system said to link them together.

Reports suggest:

- Maglev trains traveling 300–500 mph
- Vacuum-sealed tunnels
- Direct links between military bases, airports, and even underwater facilities

There are claims that you can travel from New York to Los Angeles underground in less than 2 hours using this system.

Sounds crazy? Well, here’s what’s not theory:

- Elon Musk is publicly building a “Boring Company” to dig high-speed underground transit tunnels
- The U.S. military has acknowledged investing in underground transportation prototypes

- Patents exist for “tunnel boring machines” capable of melting through rock using nuclear-powered energy

If this is what’s public... what’s classified?

The Black Budget: Funding the Unknown

This is where it gets darker. Literally and financially.

The Black Budget refers to that portion of U.S. federal spending that is classified—no line items, no audits, no public disclosure.

According to some analysts:

- Over $80 billion per year goes into black projects
- Actual numbers may be much higher
- These funds are used for:
 - Classified weapons
 - Surveillance infrastructure
 - Secret research
 - And yes... underground construction

In 2001—just one day before 9/11—Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld admitted that the Pentagon could not account for $2.3 trillion in transactions.

Let that sink in.

And where was the investigation? Gone. Buried—quite literally—when the Pentagon was hit the next morning.

This level of untraceable spending is not just suspicious—it’s spiritually telling. Because what man hides from others, he still cannot hide from God.

The Bible: “They Dig Into Hell...”

Let’s bring this back to the Word of God. Because no matter how advanced the machines, no matter how deep the tunnels, the Bible already saw it coming.

Amos 9:2 says:

“Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down.”

That’s not metaphor.

That’s literal prophecy of man’s attempt to:

- Dig deep into the earth (underground cities)
- Climb high into the heavens (space programs, Babel)
- Escape God’s judgment by building into hidden places

But God says—I see you. I will reach you.

There is no depth of granite or nuclear shielding that can stop His hand. Not in Cheyenne Mountain. Not under DIA. Not in Raven Rock.

The Bible also tells us:

- Hell is below (Deuteronomy 32:22, Proverbs 15:24)
- The pit has a mouth (Isaiah 5:14)
- The earth opens to swallow men (Numbers 16)
- Dead things are formed under the waters (Job 26:5)

So when man builds tunnels, drills into the depths, and carves out cities underground, it’s not just for safety—it’s to flee the face of God, like Adam hiding in the trees.

The builders of DUMBs may think they’re above judgment. But Scripture guarantees: they’re digging closer to it.

What Are They Hiding?

Let’s ask the harder question.

Why do they need these bases?

It’s not just about continuity of government. It’s not just to ride out a nuclear event. It’s about:

- Experimentation without oversight
- Weaponizing technology beyond Geneva conventions

- Spiritual containment or summoning operations
- Preparing for events they know are coming—but won't warn the public about

Some theorists believe that:

- Fallen angels are imprisoned in deep places (Jude 1:6, 2 Peter 2:4)
- Governments have made “covenants with death and hell” (Isaiah 28:15)
- There is interaction between demonic forces and human officials
- DUMBs serve as literal gateways or strongholds of darkness

And honestly, the symbolism in military patches, airport art, and Masonic hallways seems to confirm they know exactly what they're doing.

The Spiritual Warfare Below

Ephesians 6:12 reminds us:

“For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.”

But what about low places?

What if the rulers of darkness aren't only above in high towers, but entrenched below in deep caverns?

The enemy isn't just working through politics or media. He's entrenched in places we can't see, can't vote on, and can't expose with a press conference.

There are rituals happening underground.

There are plans being enacted under our cities, under our farmlands, under our schools.

And yet the church sleeps.

Final Reflection: The Tower and the Tunnel

The Tower of Babel was a monument of human arrogance. It rose toward the heavens. And God shattered it.

Today, man is no longer just building up. He's building down.

Beneath every nation lie hidden things—both ancient and modern. In the name of national security, scientific progress, and survival, man digs deeper... and gets closer to judgment.

Let me say this plainly:

- You don't build secret cities if your intentions are good.
- You don't spend trillions in secrecy unless you're hiding something.
- And you don't go that deep unless you're either running from God... or trying to unleash something that shouldn't be touched.

But nothing is truly hidden.

Not from Him.

Not from us.

The light is shining down, and what was hidden is being brought to the surface. Brick by brick. Level by level.

They can dig into hell—but His hand will take them.

4 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Tunnels Beneath Cities – And No One Knows Why

There's something haunting about walking the streets of an old city—especially when you start to realize that the streets you see are only part of the story. Beneath the sidewalks, below the buildings, hidden behind steel grates and locked doors, there's an entirely different world—a world we're not supposed to know exists.

And here's what really gets me: no one seems to know why it's there.

Who built it?

When?

For what purpose?

In the past few years, I've had conversations, read testimonies, watched footage, and even talked to law enforcement—and the message is eerily consistent:

“There are tunnels under this city. We don’t know where they all go. And no one talks about it.”

So this essay isn’t a theory—it’s an invitation. To ask the question the media, the politicians, and even many historians refuse to ask: What are the tunnels beneath our cities doing there, and who put them there?

A Conversation I’ll Never Forget

I’ve shared this before, but it bears repeating because it’s not unique to me—and that’s what makes it so important.

Years ago, in the small Ohio town where I lived, I had a conversation with a local police officer. We were talking casually when I asked him if he’d ever come across anything strange in town. Without hesitation, he leaned in and said:

“There are tunnels under this town—going in every direction. Some of them, we don’t even know where they go. We don’t know how they got there. And no one talks about it.”

He wasn’t joking. He wasn’t speculating. He was reporting a fact from someone who’d seen things firsthand.

And this wasn’t New York or Washington, D.C. This was a quiet, rural Midwestern town.

If even a place like that has an unmapped network of tunnels, then what does that say about the rest of the country—especially the major cities?

Seattle’s Underground City: History or Hidden History?

Let’s start in Seattle—one of the few cities that actually admits it has an underground section.

Beneath modern Seattle lies a network of tunnels, rooms, and streets. They’re even used for tourism now—“The Seattle Underground Tour.”

Here’s what they tell you:

In the late 1800s, the city burned down. When it was rebuilt, they decided to raise the street level to deal with flooding and sewage issues. So the original streets and storefronts were abandoned, buried, and sealed off.

Case closed?

Not quite.

When you tour the underground, you'll notice something strange:

- Entire doorways and windows below ground.
- Decorative stonework meant to be seen, not buried.
- Arches and architecture far too elaborate for the supposed time period and purpose.

People begin to ask:

- Why was the original city design so complex?
- Why did they seal it off so quickly?
- Why do other cities have similar stories?

Seattle might give you the tour, but it doesn't give you the truth. Something was there before. Something planned. Something intentional.

Portland: Shanghai Tunnels or Something Deeper?

Now, travel just a few hours south to Portland, Oregon, and you'll find another mystery: the Shanghai Tunnels.

The official story goes like this:

- In the 1800s, Portland was a major port city.
- Unsuspecting victims (especially young men) were kidnapped, drugged, and smuggled through tunnels beneath the city—then sold to ship captains needing crew.
- These “Shanghai tunnels” connected saloons, brothels, and the waterfront.

It's a horrific story—but also convenient. It gives the city an excuse for why the tunnels are there, without explaining how they were built, who designed them, or why they're so extensive.

There are hundreds of feet of tunnel, archways, vaults, and rooms—many sealed off or never fully explored.

Questions still unanswered:

- Why were they so symmetrical and well-constructed for crime tunnels?
- Why are parts made of masonry and brickwork if they were only used for smuggling?
- Why do many connect to modern government buildings?

Once again, we're offered a sanitized history while the true purpose of these tunnels remains buried.

The Paris Catacombs: Death in the Deep

Cross the ocean to Paris, and you'll find one of the most famous underground networks in the world: the Catacombs.

Six million bodies.

Miles of tunnels.

Unmarked doors.

Forbidden passages.

It's one of the creepiest places on Earth. And even though it's a tourist attraction, most of the catacombs are off-limits.

The official story is simple:

- In the 18th century, the city's cemeteries were overrun.
- They decided to move the bones underground into abandoned limestone quarries.
- A few years later, the bones were arranged artistically into walls and displays.

Sounds plausible, right?

Except...

- The tunnels go on for over 200 miles.
- They reach beneath almost every district in Paris.
- Many of them were carved far before the 18th century.
- Some have no known entry point from the surface.

Urban explorers have found:

- Hidden chambers with altars

- Graffiti dating back hundreds of years
- Sealed doorways
- Signs of modern surveillance systems

One group even found a fully equipped movie theater deep underground—hooked up with power and sound systems, completely hidden.

Who installed it? No one knows. But cameras were set up the next day. Someone was watching.

Washington, D.C. – A City Beneath a City

No essay on underground tunnels would be complete without addressing Washington, D.C.

The U.S. capital is riddled with:

- Underground train lines
- Secret passageways between government buildings
- Fallout shelters
- Vaulted rooms beneath the Capitol and White House

This is not conspiracy theory. Some of this has been declassified or confirmed through whistleblowers and journalists.

Just consider:

- The Capitol Visitor Center, completed in 2008, cost over $600 million and contains three stories of underground construction
- The White House has a sub-basement bunker known as the Presidential Emergency Operations Center
- There are tunnels connecting the Capitol to the Library of Congress, Senate offices, and even private hotels

And that's just what they admit.

Rumors persist of:

- A massive base beneath the Pentagon

- A direct tunnel to Mount Weather, the FEMA command center
- Transportation tunnels for elite escape routes
- Subterranean facilities used for operations the public is not allowed to know about

When the people who make the rules are the ones building the tunnels... accountability disappears.

Every City Has a Story

Seattle. Portland. Paris. D.C. These are just the ones that made headlines.

But what about:

- Chicago, with its freight tunnel system that runs beneath the Loop
- Los Angeles, where old “Prohibition-era” tunnels connect to courthouses and banks
- New York City, with sealed subway stations and rumored chambers beneath the Masonic lodge
- Kansas City, where an entire city operates underground in a limestone cave known as SubTropolis

Then there are smaller cities and towns, where local police or utility workers will quietly tell you:

“There’s something down there. We just don’t know what it is.”

Sometimes they find rooms with nothing in them.

Sometimes they don’t go in at all.

And sometimes, the entrances are quietly sealed off and forgotten.

But the question remains:

Why are they there?

Amos 9:2 – “They Dig Into Hell...”

Let’s bring this back to the Word of God. Because as strange and dark as this gets, the Bible saw it coming.

“Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down.” – Amos 9:2

This verse is prophetic and literal.

It speaks of a rebellious people—those who seek to hide themselves from God. They dig into the earth thinking they can escape, survive, or build their own empires beneath His judgment.

But God says:

“My hand will take them.”

You can dig as deep as you want.

You can build your bunkers, tunnels, and strongholds.

But if you’re running from truth, from righteousness, from accountability—you’re not building safety. You’re building a trap for your soul.

The Pattern of Secret Things Below

Throughout Scripture, we’re told:

- Hell is beneath (Deuteronomy 32:22)
- The pit has chambers (Ezekiel 26:20)
- The kings of the earth will one day say to the rocks, "Fall on us" (Revelation 6:15-16)
- Dead things are formed under the waters (Job 26:5)

Even Jesus described hell as a place of “outer darkness” (Matthew 8:12)—a phrase that eerily mirrors what explorers describe when they enter these tunnels. Darkness that’s not just absence of light—but presence of fear.

So is it any wonder that man tries to escape judgment above by hiding below?

We dig to hide. We dig to survive.

And in doing so, we dig toward the very place we fear most.

Questions No One Can Answer

At this point, you might be asking:

- Why does no one tell the truth about these tunnels?
- Why aren't there more records?
- Why do cities seal off so many entrances?
- Why are stories quickly dismissed or erased?

The answer is the same as it's always been:

If the truth were known, people would start asking the wrong questions.

Like:

- Were these tunnels part of a pre-flood civilization?
- Did ancient giants or fallen beings dwell in darkness below?
- Are secret projects still active underground?
- What's being prepared or protected down there?

The last thing the powers of this world want is a population waking up and asking why their cities have two levels—one seen, one hidden.

Final Reflection: Look Down, Not Just Up

We've been trained to look up—to watch the sky for signs, to look forward for progress.

But the real truth?

Much of what matters has been buried beneath us.

There are layers to this world:

- Physical layers of soil and stone
- Historical layers of lies and cover-ups
- Spiritual layers of darkness and judgment

And just like the tunnels beneath our cities, the spiritual war beneath our culture runs deep, dark, and unseen.

It's time to start asking:

- What's beneath our streets?

- What's beneath the headlines?
- What's beneath the surface of everything we've been told?

Because the moment we start looking down, we might finally understand how high the stakes really are.

They can dig into hell all they want.

God will still bring them down.

5 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Under the Sea – Tunnel Systems Across Oceans?

There's a theory—whispered in fringe corners of the internet, casually dismissed by skeptics, and mocked by mainstream science—that the continents of the world are secretly connected underground and undersea. And not just by cables or pipelines, but by vast, hidden tunnel systems stretching beneath the oceans, linking nations, governments, and possibly agendas that operate far beyond public knowledge.

It sounds like science fiction... until you start reading between the lines. Until you start noticing the patterns. Until you start connecting dots that the media never dares to even draw.

In this essay, we're diving deep—literally beneath the seafloor—to explore the possibility that what we've been told about Earth's structure, human technology, and global transportation is, at best, incomplete... and at worst, deliberately deceptive.

Because once again, the Bible leaves us clues that the world would rather ignore. Genesis 7:11 tells us that during the great flood:

“The same day were all the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened.”

What does that mean?

That the flood didn't just come from above—it came from below.

If the “great deep” contains fountains that can be broken open... then maybe it also contains things man is now rediscovering—or even building.

Are the Continents Secretly Connected?

We're taught that the continents are separated by vast oceans, tectonic plates, and crushing pressures deep beneath the seabed. Fair enough.

But what if there are tunnel systems underneath all that?

What if there are engineering marvels so deep, so hidden, that even most governments don't know about them?

There are whispers of:

- Tunnels from California to China
- Sub-oceanic highways connecting Europe to the Americas
- Military train systems that run beneath the Atlantic
- Tunnel networks under the Arctic and Antarctic regions

Let's start with what we know.

The Channel Tunnel: A Proof of Concept

The Chunnel—a 31-mile underwater train tunnel connecting England and France beneath the English Channel—is one of the greatest engineering feats of modern times.

It was completed in the early 1990s and runs about 250 feet beneath the sea floor.

The project:

- Took 6 years to complete
- Involved massive boring machines
- Used pressurized environments and advanced safety systems
- Was widely publicized and praised

But what people don't ask is:

Why this project? Why here? And if we can do this publicly... what's being done privately?

If a public project in the 1990s could achieve this, what could military black budgets have accomplished over the last 70 years, in complete secrecy?

Patents and Projects Most Have Never Heard About

Let's talk about bizarre patents—because sometimes, the truth hides in plain sight.

Here are just a few examples that raise major questions:

1. US Patent 3,693,731 – High-Speed Tunnel Boring Machine (1972)

This patent describes a machine that can melt through rock using plasma and nuclear energy, leaving behind smooth glass-like tunnel walls. Nicknamed the “subterrene,” this machine supposedly allows for near-silent, high-speed boring.

If this existed over 50 years ago... what do we have now?

2. US Patent 6,309,374 – High-Speed Vacuum Train (2001)

Also known as the “vactrain,” this concept describes maglev transportation in evacuated tubes, allowing trains to travel at over 4,000 mph underground or undersea.

Does that sound familiar?

It's exactly what whistleblowers have described in theories about intercontinental transport tunnels.

3. Global Tunneling Initiatives

There are dozens of reports—some leaked, others obscure—about classified tunneling operations:

- “Project Excalibur” – An alleged US military operation focused on deep tunneling.
- “Sub-Global Transport Network” – Rumored maps exist showing underground routes from the US to Europe and Asia.
- “Operation Plowshare” – A Cold War project investigating nuclear tunneling, allegedly successful in blasting underground passageways.

Now, some of this has been discredited—or at least publicly buried. But the existence of patents and scientific papers from top universities confirms: the concept of undersea tunneling is not impossible.

It's just... secret.

Testimonies from the Shadows

Then come the witnesses—the people who speak up and disappear.

Whistleblowers and insiders have long claimed that the U.S., China, and Russia all operate deep undersea tunnels. Some of their testimonies include:

- A naval technician who said there's a magnetic train that connects San Diego to Shanghai in under 2 hours.
- A retired CIA pilot who claimed to have knowledge of polar entrance points to subterranean systems running under oceans and ice caps.
- Phil Schneider, the geologist and engineer mentioned earlier, who stated publicly that tunnels already existed under the Pacific.

Schneider once said:

“You could board a maglev train at Groom Lake and be in China in under an hour—without ever surfacing.”

He was mocked. Then he was silenced. Found dead. Ruled suicide. No investigation.

That should tell you everything.

Military Bases in Strange Places

Many of the military's most secure and remote facilities are placed near major oceans or coastal fault lines.

For example:

- Diego Garcia – A secretive British-owned, U.S.-operated base in the Indian Ocean.
- Pine Gap – In the Australian outback, rumored to connect to deep tunnels beneath the ocean.
- Guam and Midway Atoll – Tiny islands packed with military infrastructure.
- Antarctica – Home to bases like McMurdo, yet cloaked in constant secrecy.

These locations are prime launching points for undersea construction, yet their logistics don't make sense—unless they're connected by tunnels we're not told about.

What Does the Bible Say?

Now let's return to Genesis 7:11, during the description of the Great Flood:

“...all the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the windows of heaven were opened.”

Notice the two-pronged flood:

1. “The windows of heaven were opened” – water came from above
2. “The fountains of the great deep were broken up” – water came from below

This is not poetic.

This is literal tectonic, hydrologic, and geological upheaval.

The “fountains” of the deep suggest vast underground water systems that once gushed upward with unimaginable force. Modern science confirms this:

- There are subterranean oceans of water trapped in rock layers beneath the Earth’s crust.
- These pockets are massive, holding more water than all surface oceans combined.
- Earthquakes, eruptions, and even unknown triggers could release them.

So, if there are springs, pockets, and cavities beneath the seafloor—what else might be down there?

And more importantly:

Who might be using them now?

The Great Deep: Not Just Water, But a Realm

In Scripture, the word “deep” (Hebrew: tehom) is not just a body of water—it’s often used to refer to a realm.

Genesis 1:2 says:

“And darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.”

The deep is linked with:

- Darkness
- Mystery
- Unformed space

- Chaos before creation

Later, in Job 26:5, we read:

“Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.”

That verse should stop you cold.

“Dead things” from under the waters?

Is it just the drowned? Or is it something more? Something alive... but buried?

We tend to imagine the sea as empty. But biblically and spiritually, the deep may be home to things not meant for man’s eyes.

Undersea Mysteries the World Ignores

If you’ve ever looked into underwater anomalies, you know there are structures and artifacts that no one can explain.

- The Yonaguni Monument off Japan: massive carved stone that looks like a submerged city.
- The Bimini Road in the Bahamas: straight-cut stone paths underwater, leading nowhere.
- The Cuban Underwater City: found on sonar, miles beneath the ocean—never followed up.
- Submarine trench anomalies showing grid-like patterns on satellite imaging.
- Even Google Earth shows strange, rectangular formations beneath oceans that resemble building outlines, roads, and tunnels.

Mainstream science always calls these “natural formations.”

Convenient.

But even if they were natural, why are so many formations straight, symmetrical, and evenly spaced—hundreds of feet below the sea?

Nature may be beautiful. But it doesn’t build straight hallways, 90-degree turns, and patterned rows of stone.

The Spiritual Implications

If there are tunnels under the oceans, and if they were:

- Built by ancient civilizations
- Used by modern governments
- Or shaped by God during judgment

Then we're not just talking about engineering.

We're talking about something spiritual.

Psalm 139:9 says:

“If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; Even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.”

God's presence extends even to the depths.

But so does the enemy's ambition.

Satan, cast to earth, is called the “prince of the power of the air” (Ephesians 2:2), but his influence reaches deep—into governments, underground strongholds, and perhaps even under the sea.

The abyss—the bottomless pit in Revelation—is opened from beneath.

Could the oceans be connected to that abyss?

Could tunnels under the sea be part of that final plan—to release what has long been bound?

Are We Being Prepared for Disclosure?

As more people become aware of these tunnel possibilities, you'll notice that the media begins to twist the narrative.

They'll say:

- “Oh, we've always known about underwater trains.”
- “There's nothing unusual—just exploratory drilling.”
- “Yes, we're building Elon Musk's tunnel train—but it's just for public transportation.”

It's always:

- “Yes, but not like that.”
- “Yes, but not dangerous.”
- “Yes, but it’s for your convenience.”

They are conditioning the public for disclosure.

But they won’t tell the truth. Because the truth leads to a place they don’t want you to go:

What they’ve built under the sea is tied to something older, darker, and more spiritual than they’ll ever admit.

Final Reflection: The Depths Declare the Secrets

We often look at the sea and think it separates us—continent from continent, people from people.

But maybe the sea doesn’t divide us as much as we’ve been told.

Maybe beneath it lies:

- A network of tunnels
- Ancient cities
- Lost knowledge
- And perhaps... gateways to judgment

The Bible says God used the fountains of the deep once to judge the earth.

And it says He’ll do it again.

So if man is tunneling, digging, and building down into the deep, perhaps he’s not preparing for safety...

Perhaps he’s laying the final tracks to his own destruction.

And if there really are tunnels beneath the oceans—then it’s not just what lies beneath that matters...

It’s what’s coming through.

6 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Fallen Angels and the Lower Chambers

We've traveled deep so far in this series—through buried cities, secret tunnels, and undersea networks few dare to imagine exist. But now we go deeper still—not into bedrock or black budgets, but into the spiritual chambers beneath creation. Because beneath it all lies a truth the world does not want to face:

Hell is not a metaphor. It's a location. And it's active.

This essay explores the chilling possibility that what lies beneath isn't just infrastructure—but imprisonment. That the tunnels, chambers, and subterranean realms we keep discovering may not be new at all—but ancient, sealed, and inhabited by something far more terrifying than man.

We're talking about fallen angels. Chains of darkness. The lower chambers. The pit. The abyss.

And we're not guessing. The Bible tells us so.

“Hell from beneath is moved to meet thee...”

Let's begin with one of the most powerful and unsettling verses in the Bible. In Isaiah 14, God speaks against Lucifer—the fallen anointed cherub, the one who said, “I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God.”

Here's how God responds:

“Hell from beneath is moved for thee to meet thee at thy coming...”

– Isaiah 14:9

This isn't symbolic language. It's a location-based description. Hell—from beneath—moved to meet its newest and most prideful occupant.

Hell has intelligence. Movement. Geography. And layers.

Later in the same chapter, we read:

“Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit.” – Isaiah 14:15

The sides of the pit. Not just “hell,” but a specific region—suggesting multiple compartments or sections within this realm. This aligns with Luke 16, where Jesus describes a great gulf separating Abraham's bosom and the tormenting flames.

But what does this have to do with tunnels? Chambers? Caves?

Everything.

Because the very word for hell in the Hebrew—Sheol—can mean “grave,” “pit,” or underground dwelling place of departed spirits.

We’re not just talking about some abstract afterlife. We’re talking about a structured realm beneath the surface. One that, according to Scripture, has been active, populated, and—until the resurrection—divided.

Job 26:5 – “Dead things are formed from under the waters...”

This verse in Job gives us another piece of the puzzle:

“Dead things are formed from under the waters, and the inhabitants thereof.” – Job 26:5

Let’s slow this down.

- “Dead things are formed...” – Something is being created, shaped, or imprisoned.
- “...from under the waters...” – Not just under land—but under oceans, seas, or the “deep.”
- “...and the inhabitants thereof.” – This implies that something lives there.

Who or what are these “inhabitants”?

The Hebrew word translated “dead things” (Rephaim) is the same word used elsewhere for spirits of the dead or giants. It appears in Isaiah, Proverbs, and Psalms, always in contexts of death, the grave, and spiritual imprisonment.

So we’re not talking about fish, skeletons, or seaweed.

We’re talking about entities—dead but not gone, disembodied but conscious—that reside beneath the waters.

Some have suggested this verse refers to the spirits of the Nephilim, hybrid offspring of Genesis 6, drowned in the Flood but not extinguished. Others say it references a race of spiritual beings once active in creation but now locked in a realm beneath the deep.

In either case, it points to something spiritual, active, and buried.

Not gone. Just waiting.

The Lower Chambers: More Than a Grave

Throughout the Bible, there's mention not just of "hell," but of chambers, pits, furnaces, and depths.

For example:

"To bring her down to the dust, to the pit, to the lowest parts of the earth, in places desolate of old..."

– Ezekiel 26:20

"The sorrows of hell compassed me about... the snares of death prevented me."

– 2 Samuel 22:6

"He brought me up also out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay..."

– Psalm 40:2

"Thou hast laid me in the lowest pit, in darkness, in the deeps."

– Psalm 88:6

"I went down to the bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me forever..."

– Jonah 2:6

These aren't poetic phrases.

They are geographic, descriptive, and terrifyingly consistent.

There are "lowest parts of the earth", "bottoms of mountains", "bars of the earth", and "chambers of death."

This is not metaphor.

It's architecture.

Ancient Imprisonment: Fallen Angels in Chains

Let's connect these chambers to one of the most overlooked doctrines in modern Christianity: the imprisonment of fallen angels.

In Genesis 6, we read:

“The sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were fair; and they took them wives...”

– Genesis 6:2

“There were giants in the earth in those days... when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men...”

– Genesis 6:4

This union—between fallen celestial beings and human women—produced the Nephilim (giants). These hybrid creatures were abominations, and their existence was one of the primary reasons for the Flood.

But what happened to the fallen angels themselves?

Peter and Jude tell us:

“...God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment...”

– 2 Peter 2:4

“...the angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day.”

– Jude 1:6

Did you catch that?

These angels are:

- Not free
- Not roaming
- Imprisoned in chains
- In darkness
- Under the earth

The Greek word for “hell” here isn’t Hades or Gehenna—but Tartarus. A unique term referring to a deep, dungeon-like prison—the lowest part of the underworld.

Even in Greek mythology, Tartarus was the place where the Titans were imprisoned. It was never meant for mortals—but for powerful, divine rebels.

That perfectly aligns with the biblical view of rebellious angels locked in deep, subterranean chambers—waiting.

For what?

Judgment.

Are the Tunnels Man Is Building Intersecting with These Chambers?

This is where it gets disturbing.

What if the tunnels being built by governments, military contractors, and secret societies aren't just for transport and protection?

What if they're mapping ancient structures, breaking ancient seals, or approaching places man was never meant to go?

Could it be that:

- Certain chambers beneath our feet are not natural, but prisons?
- DUMBs, sub-oceanic tunnels, and buried cities are accidentally (or deliberately) intersecting these?
- Earthquakes, strange booms, and mysterious underground noises are signs of disturbances in these ancient prison zones?

There's growing belief—even among non-Christians—that something is shifting beneath us. And as we explore deeper, drill further, and tunnel longer, we're not just building infrastructure—we're opening doors.

Apollyon and the Bottomless Pit

Revelation 9 tells us of a terrifying future moment:

“And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit.”

– Revelation 9:1

“And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke out of the pit... and there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth...”

– Revelation 9:2–3

“And they had a king over them... whose name... is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon.”

– Revelation 9:11

This bottomless pit is not hell in the final sense (lake of fire). It is a holding place, a demonic prison.

When it is opened, a horde is released—supernatural beings who torment mankind. Their king is Apollyon, a name that means Destroyer.

This is the same term echoed in the CERN project, where a statue of Shiva the Destroyer sits outside the particle accelerator, and whose project name eerily parallels this figure.

Are these just coincidences?

Or is the scientific world trying to break into something spiritual, something that should remain sealed?

Modern Tunnels and Ancient Chambers: What If They're the Same?

There are rumors—unconfirmed but persistent—that some of the deepest underground bases have:

- Sealed doors no one can open
- Chambers with ancient carvings
- Floors of “black stone” that hum or vibrate
- Areas that military personnel are forbidden to enter without clearance

Some even say paranormal activity occurs in these areas—suggesting spiritual presence.

Whether literal or metaphorical, these stories echo a simple truth:

Beneath our feet lie things we were not meant to disturb.

Why This Matters for You

You may never go underground.

You may never work in a tunnel.

But the truth is: what’s happening beneath us affects everything above.

The war we’re fighting is not just above the clouds—it’s under the soil.

Ephesians 6:12 says:

“For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world...”

Some of that darkness is below, chained but straining.

Some of those rulers are imprisoned, but awaiting release.

And some of those lower chambers may soon be opened—not by angels, but by men.

Final Reflection: The Gates Are Real

Jesus said in Matthew 16:18:

“...upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.”

That wasn't metaphor. That was mission.

Gates are:

- Locations
- Fortifications
- Entry points

If hell has gates, then it has boundaries.

If it has boundaries, then it can be breached.

And if man continues digging, defying, and disturbing—then one day soon, those gates will swing wide.

So here we are.

On the surface.

Building our towers.

Digging our tunnels.

Ignoring the sounds from below.

But God has spoken. And the chambers beneath are not silent. They are preparing for release.

You don't need to fear—but you do need to be awake.

Because one day soon, what's imprisoned... will rise.

7 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Ancient Civilizations and Subterranean Gateways

As we journey further into this series, one question keeps pressing its way through the layers of history, scripture, and secrecy: What did the ancients know about the underground that we've forgotten—or been told to forget?

The tunnels we see today may not be new. The subterranean chambers we map with sonar may not be our creation. And the cities buried under mountains or sealed in stone may not be ruins of post-Flood civilizations—but remnants of a world that existed before it.

A world of giants, hybrids, watchers, forbidden technology, and escape routes carved into the earth by beings who weren't just fleeing a flood—they were fleeing judgment.

In this essay, we dig into the mystery of ancient subterranean gateways. Not only in places like Turkey's Derinkuyu, but scattered across the globe—hidden beneath our feet, behind sealed doors and forgotten timelines.

These places didn't just survive history.

They outlived it.

Derinkuyu: The City Beneath the Earth

Let's start with one of the most fascinating archaeological finds in the modern world: Derinkuyu, a massive underground city in central Turkey.

Discovered in 1963 by accident, this ancient city:

- Descends over 200 feet beneath the surface
- Contains 18–20 levels, though only 8 have been excavated
- Had capacity to house 20,000 to 40,000 people
- Includes ventilation shafts, water wells, churches, living quarters, livestock areas, and sealed stone doors to lock out intruders

But here's what no one can explain:

- Who built it?
- How was it engineered?
- Why was it needed?

Mainstream archaeologists suggest it was built around 800 B.C.—but offer no explanation for the complexity, scale, or lack of construction records.

Some even say it could be far older—pre-flood old.

The local Cappadocian people have long known of its existence. Legends tell of “ancient beings” who fled from surface disasters and hid underground.

Even today, the ventilation system is so precise that air can reach the deepest levels.

Let me ask you plainly:

Does that sound like Bronze Age work with hand tools?

Or does it sound like pre-Flood engineering—a civilization with knowledge far beyond what textbooks are willing to admit?

Were These Cities Built to Escape God’s Judgment?

Genesis 6 tells us that violence filled the earth, and that man had corrupted himself along with creation. God says:

“The end of all flesh is come before me... Make thee an ark...” – Genesis 6:13–14

Noah was told to build above the earth—to survive what would come from below and above.

But what about those who refused to repent?

What about the giants?

What about the watchers—the fallen angels?

It stands to reason: if the Flood was global, and you knew judgment was coming, wouldn’t you try to escape into the mountains or the depths?

Derinkuyu, with its sealing stone doors, hidden water supplies, and separation of levels, seems more like a bunker than a city.

And not just Derinkuyu.

Across the world, there are subterranean structures that predate empires:

- Underground complexes in Ecuador with unknown inscriptions

- Hypogeum of Hal-Saflieni in Malta—carved chambers that produce strange resonance
- The Osirion at Abydos, buried far below the Egyptian temple level
- Subterranean megalithic stonework in Peru and Bolivia
- Giant underground tunnels in Mexico under Teotihuacán

How did civilizations supposedly lacking even the wheel create multi-ton underground temples?

Answer: they didn't.

Something—or someone—before them did.

The Giants Went Underground

Now let's talk about the Nephilim.

Genesis 6:4 tells us:

“There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that...”

Who were they?

They were the hybrid offspring of the sons of God (fallen angels) and the daughters of men. An unholy union. An invasion of heaven's rebels into human DNA.

The result?

- Men of renown.
- Massive in size.
- Violent in nature.
- Abominations in the sight of God.

They triggered the Flood.

But here's the key phrase:

“...and also after that.”

After what?

After the Flood.

So where did they go?

If they weren't all destroyed, and if their spirits became what we call "unclean spirits" or demons" (see Enoch, Jubilees, and Jesus' own words), then some may have:

- Survived in pockets
- Gone underground
- Continued manipulating mankind through secret knowledge

Every culture has legends of giants fleeing into mountains, hiding in caves, or descending into the underworld.

The Hopi speak of ant people who helped them survive underground.

The Sumerians recorded beings known as Anunnaki, who ruled from beneath.

The Norse had Jotunn (giants) who hid in underground realms.

The Bible has Og, king of Bashan, whose bed was 13 feet long and whose territory contained the entrances of the underworld (Deuteronomy 3:11, Numbers 21:33).

Even Goliath was not the last of his kind, but a remnant of something buried—a bloodline from deep time.

These weren't myths.

These were memories.

Ancient Gateways: Portals to the Past... or to Prison?

The Bible doesn't just mention "hell" or "the pit" as abstract concepts. It describes entrances—gateways—between this world and the next.

In Numbers 16, when Korah rebelled against Moses, what did God do?

"The earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up... they went down alive into the pit..."

– Numbers 16:32–33

In Isaiah 14, Lucifer is told:

"Thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit."

– Isaiah 14:15

Jesus said of hell:

“...where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.” – Mark 9:44

Revelation speaks of:

- The Bottomless Pit
- The Abyss
- The Keys of Death and Hell
- The Lake of Fire

And always—there’s a gate, a mouth, a seal, a chamber.

Could it be that what man sees as “ancient underground cities” are, in fact, spiritual prison zones?

Could the massive stone doors in Derinkuyu, the sealed pits of the giants, the tombs of Nimrod, the underground vaults beneath Mount Hermon—be locks?

Locks designed not to keep us out... but to keep something in?

What the Pagan Myths Confirm

It’s easy to dismiss mythologies as fairy tales. But what if the myths are corrupted memories of biblical truths?

In Greek mythology:

- Tartarus was a prison for rebellious gods
- Hades ruled the underworld, which had layers and rivers
- Orpheus descended into the underworld through a cave entrance

In Hindu beliefs:

- The Nagas (serpent beings) live in Patala—a world beneath the earth
- Entrances to Patala are found through mountains, caves, and oceans

In Sumerian texts:

- Inanna descends into the underworld, passing through seven gates
- The Anunnaki judge her from below

In Mayan lore:

- The underworld is called Xibalba
- Accessed through caves and cenotes
- Home to gods of death and destruction

These aren't fairy tales.

They're shadows of a truth first revealed in Genesis—a truth Satan has rebranded to confuse people.

Even the concept of portals, gates, and chambers beneath the earth is echoed in every ancient culture.

Why?

Because they knew.

Because something once came down from above... and went down below.

Are We Rediscovering What Was Buried?

With modern sonar, LIDAR, and satellite scanning, we are now uncovering massive underground complexes, pyramids, cities, and tunnels—beneath what we thought was the “first layer” of civilization.

Some examples:

- The Bosnian Pyramid Complex—possibly larger than Giza, with underground tunnels extending for miles
- Antarctica's hidden anomalies—satellite images showing regular structures beneath the ice
- Amazonian geoglyphs found only after tree cover was removed
- Middle Eastern underground cities yet to be excavated fully due to political instability

And yet, every time one of these is discovered, it's either:

- Ignored
- Debunked

- Reattributed to “natural formation”
- Or labeled a “mythical remnant”

Because the world cannot allow people to realize:

- Civilizations existed before Sumer
- Giants walked among men
- Hybrid beings tampered with DNA
- Underground chambers were built as escape pods, thrones, or prisons

The moment we remember, the modern narrative falls apart.

What Does This Mean for Us Today?

You may be asking, “Why does this matter? Isn’t this all in the past?”

It matters because the past is not dead.

It’s buried.

And what is buried is stirring.

Jesus said:

“As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.” – Luke 17:26

In Noah’s day:

- Giants ruled the earth
- Fallen angels descended
- Genetic corruption spread
- Violence was everywhere
- God’s judgment came through water—from above and below

If that pattern is repeating—and it is—then we can expect:

- Giants (return of Nephilim genetics)
- Hidden tech reemerging
- Gates opening

- Underground realms disturbed

As we drill, tunnel, detonate, and experiment—we are awakening what should have stayed sealed.

Final Reflection: Buried, But Not Forgotten

There are cities underground.

There are chambers locked in stone.

There are tunnels carved with knowledge we no longer possess.

And there are beings—fallen, rebellious, condemned—who wait in the shadows of those chambers.

The ancients weren't building underground to avoid the weather.

They were hiding from the wrath of God.

But God always finds the proud.

And the pit is not a place of escape—it's a place of judgment.

As we uncover these places, build over them, or even enter them with arrogance, we are not merely exploring...

We are trespassing on the ruins of a war that once was—and will be again.

8 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Covenant With Death and Hell – Secret Deals Below

In this series, we've unearthed layers of mystery—tunnels, chambers, fallen beings, ancient cities, and gateways to realms beneath the surface. But what if some of the world's most powerful figures are not just aware of these places... but actively using them?

What if the great deception of our time isn't that these subterranean locations exist, but that the elites—the kings of the earth—have entered into agreements involving them?

Not contracts for construction.

Covenants.

Today, we're exploring one of the most chilling verses in the Bible—a verse that pulls the curtain back on the spiritual bargains made behind closed doors and deep beneath the earth's surface:

“Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement...”

– Isaiah 28:15

This isn't metaphor.

This is prophetic exposure—God revealing that certain people, institutions, and rulers have aligned themselves not with heaven... but with hell itself.

They've gone underground—literally and spiritually.

And it's time we shine the light on the corridors of power that descend into the pit.

Isaiah 28:15 – The Deal No One Talks About

Let's begin with the full context of this stunning passage:

“Because ye have said, We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through, it shall not come unto us: for we have made lies our refuge, and under falsehood have we hid ourselves.”

– Isaiah 28:15

This is a divine indictment.

God is speaking to rulers in Jerusalem who believed their alliances—whether military, political, or spiritual—would shield them from judgment. They had formed a pact with darkness, convinced it would protect them.

Look closely:

- They boast of a covenant with death
- They are in agreement with hell
- They believe this will shield them from judgment
- They've hidden in lies and taken refuge in deception

This is spiritual treason—aligning with the forces of death and the grave under the false hope that darkness can protect from divine wrath.

Sound familiar?

It should. Because this exact mindset is alive today—in the corridors of global power.

Where the Powerful Go to Hide: Underground Ritual and Control

We already know from previous essays that the global elite have access to:

- Deep Underground Military Bases (DUMBs)
- Private tunnels and bunkers
- Sealed cities beneath airports, government buildings, and mountain ranges

But those are just the physical structures.

What happens in them is what matters.

There have been persistent reports of:

- High-level occult ceremonies
- Satanic and Masonic rites
- Blood sacrifice and ritual abuse
- Symbolic reenactments of descent and resurrection
- “Initiation chambers” carved into bedrock

And while skeptics scoff, we must ask:

If this is all nonsense, then why:

- Are so many elite buildings aligned with ritual geometry?
- Do so many world capitals use Masonic symbolism?
- Is Saturn, the Roman god of death and destruction, glorified in government architecture?
- Do secret societies—Skull & Bones, Freemasons, Rosicrucians—all use subterranean rituals?

Let’s not pretend this is harmless.

The Bohemian Grove, where former U.S. presidents and international leaders gather annually, is a real place. It features a giant stone owl, a cremation of care ceremony, and ritualized “mock” sacrifices.

They tell the public it's just theater.

But Isaiah 28 tells us the truth:

They've made a covenant.

The Ritual Descent – Symbolism or Something More?

All over the ancient world, we find stories of descent into the underworld:

- Inanna descending into the realm of the Anunnaki
- Orpheus descending to bring back Eurydice
- Osiris dying, going into the underworld, and returning to rule
- Dionysus, Horus, Tammuz, Quetzalcoatl—all with “death and resurrection” motifs

But here's the question:

Why do all these involve going beneath the earth?

Because in the occult worldview, the path to power runs through darkness.

To become a “god,” one must descend into death—enter the chambers of hell, face judgment, and emerge “resurrected.”

This is Satan's counterfeit of Christ's true resurrection.

And modern occultists and elite initiates try to recreate this ritual—not just symbolically, but physically.

That's why so many initiation ceremonies:

- Take place in basements
- Begin with blindfolds and death symbolism
- Involve underground vaults, like in Freemasonry's “Chamber of Reflection”
- Include symbols like skulls, coffins, and sealed tombs

They believe that by ritually descending into the pit, they will emerge empowered.

But Scripture says otherwise:

“Hell is naked before him, and destruction hath no covering.” – Job 26:6

You can't bargain with death.

You can't make peace with hell.

Yet that is exactly what today's elites have tried to do.

Is It Literal? Are World Leaders Descending?

Let's connect dots without making unfounded claims.

Here's what we do know:

- Capitol buildings, palaces, and financial centers worldwide have underground levels—often off-limits to the public
- Historical accounts exist of rituals beneath the Vatican, beneath Washington D.C., and beneath European cathedrals
- Secret societies have long taught that the underworld is the womb of transformation
- Tunnels under Epstein's island, the basements of elite properties, and the "SRA" testimonies from survivors of ritual abuse point to underground activity

Now add to that:

- Massive government facilities like Raven Rock, Cheyenne Mountain, and Dulce Base—confirmed to exist, and in some cases built beneath cathedrals, mountains, or monuments
- Frequent reports of political figures "disappearing" for days, with no public explanation
- Whistleblowers claiming that certain elite families "go below" during solstices or blood moons
- Global interest in portals, CERN, and "god particle" tech—all of which hint at accessing another realm

We're not just dealing with bunkers for survival.

We're dealing with ritual sites, sealed covenants, and spiritual transactions.

And yes—world leaders are going underground.

Freemasonry and the Covenant Mentality

Freemasonry, perhaps the most famous secret society, is deeply invested in:

- Chamber rituals
- Death and resurrection symbolism
- Descents into the crypt
- Allegorical agreements between the initiate and the unseen

In the Royal Arch degree, the initiate descends into a vault and discovers:

- The lost name of God
- Sacred relics
- And a covenant written on stone

Though stylized and allegorical, this ritual mirrors Isaiah 28—where the false priests make a covenant with death and hell, believing it will protect them.

Freemasonry denies the literal implications.

But Scripture reveals them.

Isaiah's Warning: The Covenant Will Be Canceled

Now let's return to Isaiah 28—but this time, to the next verse, where God replies:

“And your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand; when the overflowing scourge shall pass through, then ye shall be trodden down by it.”

– Isaiah 28:18

This is judgment language.

God says:

- The covenant is void
- The agreement is worthless
- The judgment will overtake them anyway

Those who aligned with darkness will not escape its consequence.

Those who burrowed into tunnels, locked vaults, and descended for ritual will be crushed by the very forces they trusted.

And those who believed lies would protect them will drown in truth.

God will not be bargained with.

Satan's Strategy: Offer Safety Through Submission

The devil's oldest trick is offering a false covenant:

- In Eden, he offered knowledge—a deal for divinity
- In the wilderness, he offered Jesus the kingdoms—a deal for worship
- In the end times, he will offer peace through the Antichrist—a deal for control

And through it all, he builds underground systems, hidden networks, covenants in shadows, and deals in darkness.

Jesus said:

“There is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known.” – Luke 12:2

And again:

“The gates of hell shall not prevail against [My church].” – Matthew 16:18

The gates—literal or symbolic—will fall.

Because there is no agreement with hell that can stand in the light of the Lamb.

Final Reflection: The Covenant is Broken

We now live in a world where:

- Leaders think they are gods
- Elites descend into secret places for power
- The earth groans beneath rituals and rebellion
- And the people perish for lack of knowledge

But the Word of God has already spoken:

The covenant with death is broken.

The agreement with hell is canceled.

And though they build deep, descend into the pit, and align with darkness—the scourge will find them.

Their bunkers will not protect them.

Their rituals will not save them.

Their blood sacrifices will not impress the Judge of all flesh.

Because Christ already made the only covenant that matters.

Sealed in His blood.

Written not on stone, but on hearts.

Offered not in darkness, but in the light of the world.

9 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Tunnels in Pop Culture – Why Hollywood Keeps Going Down

If there's one motif that keeps surfacing in modern entertainment—whether you're watching dystopian thrillers, psychological horror, or sci-fi blockbusters—it's this: the descent underground.

Why does Hollywood keep going down?

Why are so many iconic films and shows obsessed with tunnels, levels, elevators, portals, and secret facilities buried beneath the surface?

In a world where mass media constantly shapes thought, behavior, and belief, we have to ask: is this just artistic creativity... or is something deeper at play?

Are we being entertained, conditioned, or warned?

Because from Stranger Things to Us, from The Matrix to The Island, from Resident Evil to Cabin in the Woods, a pattern emerges—one of ritual descent, hidden knowledge, forbidden realms, and the spiritual war beneath our feet.

This essay explores how tunnels in pop culture reveal a deeper truth about our world—and how Hollywood’s obsession with going underground might be more than just metaphor.

Us (2019) – The Tethered and the Underworld

Jordan Peele’s Us opens with a haunting message:

“There are thousands of miles of tunnels beneath the United States. Abandoned subway systems, unused service routes, and undiscovered passageways. Many have no known purpose at all.”

That’s not fiction.

That’s fact—and it sets the stage for the film’s central theme:

A population of clones living underground, abandoned by their creators, forced to mimic the surface world.

Key symbolism in Us:

- Tunnels as prisons for the hidden class
- Elevators as portals between realms
- Mirrors and doubles—suggesting duality, as above, so below
- Descent as transformation

But most importantly, it suggests that what we think is “normal” life above ground is only half the story.

There is another world—beneath us—watching, waiting, and eventually... rising.

Peele’s film blurs the line between social commentary and occult revelation. Because the biblical truth is:

“That which is done in secret shall be shouted from the housetops.” – Luke 12:3

Us is a whisper of the reality that spiritual forces beneath our feet are closer than we think.

Stranger Things – The Upside Down and the Government Below

In Stranger Things, the sleepy town of Hawkins, Indiana, hides a government lab conducting experiments that breach dimensions. And it all begins underground.

- The portal to the Upside Down is not in the clouds—it’s beneath the facility.

- The “Mind Flayer” and “Demogorgons” enter through gates in basements and tunnels.
- The heroes descend repeatedly to fight the darkness in the underworld mirror realm.

The symbolism is thick:

- Children enter caves, basements, and bunkers to battle evil.
- Secret tunnels are beneath schools and homes.
- The real war is beneath the town, hidden from surface dwellers.

And what about the show's inspiration?

The writers have admitted it's loosely based on the real-life Montauk Project—a rumored government mind control and teleportation experiment under Camp Hero in New York.

Stranger Things uses fiction to reveal fact:

That what's beneath us is more than dirt—it's a battleground.

The Matrix (1999) – Machines Above, Humanity Below

In The Matrix, once Neo awakens from his digital illusion, where does he find himself?

Underground.

The real world is a post-apocalyptic wasteland where humans:

- Live in Zion, a city beneath the earth
- Travel via tunnels and hovercraft
- Are hunted by machines that seek to destroy the last free people—hiding underground

Why does freedom dwell beneath the surface?

Because the system above is artificial—a deception. Reality lies below.

But here's the spiritual parallel:

“He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens...” –

Ephesians 4:10

Christ descended first. So must we.

Before one can rise in truth, one must descend into the depth of deception, see it, and break free.

The Matrix is filled with biblical allusions. Zion. Nebuchadnezzar. Trinity. The One.

But it's also filled with occult dualism—the idea that enlightenment comes through descending into knowledge hidden from the masses.

It's truth wrapped in counterfeit.

The Island (2005) – Clones, Tunnels, and the Lie Below

In The Island, people live in a sealed-off, sterile environment believing they're survivors of a worldwide contamination. But eventually, two of them escape—only to discover the horrifying truth:

They are clones, grown for organ harvesting.

And the facility is deep underground, far from the eyes of the public.

They were told they were being protected. In reality, they were being harvested.

Sound familiar?

That's the elite model:

- Tell the masses they're safe.
- Build underground systems to use, trap, and experiment on them.
- Hide the truth with comfort and control.

The Island is fiction. But it speaks to the depopulation agenda, transhumanism, and the real purpose of many underground installations.

Because when you build something in darkness, you're probably not doing it for good.

Resident Evil – The Hive Beneath

Resident Evil begins with a global corporation, Umbrella, running a lab beneath the city—The Hive. When an outbreak occurs, it's not in a jungle... it's underground.

The theme:

- A deadly virus is created below
- The “Red Queen” AI seals off the facility
- A military team is sent down to contain the threat

But instead of saving the world, they unleash zombies, monsters, and biotech horrors into the open.

Hollywood always shows the origin of the apocalypse not in space—but beneath our cities.

Because that’s what they’re warning us about.

Or preparing us for.

Resident Evil may be extreme fiction, but the themes are consistent:

- Secret experiments in underground labs
- Elite corporations controlling genetic data
- AI overlords hiding beneath our infrastructure

It’s not just a game. It’s a pattern.

The Descent (2005) – Creatures in the Caverns

This horror classic follows a group of women who enter a cave system... and discover it’s inhabited by pale, demonic humanoid creatures.

They’ve lived there for centuries, unseen, undisturbed—until disturbed.

The creatures:

- Are blind but hunt by sound
- Move swiftly through tight tunnels
- Have adapted to darkness

In Scripture, there’s a line in Micah 7:17:

“They shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth...”

And in Isaiah 29:4:

“Thy speech shall be low out of the dust, and thy voice shall be... out of the ground, like a familiar spirit...”

These aren't horror scripts.

They're biblical prophecies of the underworld speaking.

The Descent visualizes a spiritual truth:

There are inhabitants below.

They are not lost tribes.

They are not animals.

They are abominations—hybrids, spirits, and ancient things that once were... and may return.

Cabin in the Woods – Ritual Sacrifice from the Depths

At first glance, this film looks like a generic slasher. Teenagers in a cabin, monsters, traps.

But then it reveals the truth.

Beneath the cabin is a massive underground facility where:

- Scientists monitor victims
- Creatures are released by remote
- Ritual sacrifice must be completed to appease “ancient gods”

Yes, the movie breaks the fourth wall and mocks tropes. But it also reveals:

- Government-sanctioned occultism
- Blood rituals to prevent apocalypse
- A literal system beneath the surface controlling world events

The entire structure exists below, and at the film's climax, the main characters descend into the elevator to witness the full horror.

Once again:

- Elevators = portals
- Tunnels = transition
- Blood = currency

It's not fiction. It's what Luciferians believe.

Ritual sacrifice—especially in underground settings—is not just a film device. It's a template for real-world secret societies.

Why Is Hollywood Obsessed with Descent?

Let's summarize the pattern we've now seen in multiple films:

1. The real world is beneath the surface
2. Government, elites, or AI entities control what's below
3. Portals, elevators, and tunnels lead to deeper truths
4. Monsters, clones, demons, or AI emerge from below
5. Sacrifice, suffering, or transformation occurs underground
6. The public is unaware—or manipulated by surface illusions

This is not coincidence. It's intentional myth-making.

But to what end?

Predictive Programming or Spiritual Foreshadowing?

There are two main interpretations of these patterns.

1. Predictive Programming

This theory suggests that the elite use media to:

- Normalize future events
- Condition the masses to accept the unacceptable
- Desensitize viewers to horror
- Introduce advanced tech, ideas, or agendas years in advance

By showing us tunnels, rituals, monsters, and AI overlords now, we become:

- Less resistant
- More accepting

- Unwilling to resist when it becomes real

In this view, Stranger Things, Us, Resident Evil, and others are disclosure wrapped in entertainment.

2. Spiritual Foreshadowing

This view focuses not on the elite's control, but on God's warning.

Sometimes, even the wicked speak truths they don't understand.

Like Balaam. Like Caiaphas. Like Pilate.

The Spirit may be revealing what's coming—not through prophets, but through parables in popular culture.

Jesus said:

“There is nothing hidden that will not be revealed.” – Mark 4:22

Even if the messenger is corrupt... the message can still be true.

The Bible's Final Word on the Descent

There's one more descent we must not forget:

Jesus Himself descended into the lower parts of the earth after His crucifixion.

“Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?” – Ephesians 4:9

But unlike the elite, He didn't descend to gain power.

He descended to crush the power of death.

“He led captivity captive.” – Ephesians 4:8

Hollywood imitates this—but corrupts it.

They show man descending to gain forbidden knowledge, to escape God, to become gods themselves.

But the real gospel says:

You go down with Christ to be raised with Him.

Final Reflection: Who Controls the Narrative Beneath?

The tunnels in pop culture aren't just metaphors.

They're maps—symbolic blueprints of what the spiritual realm already knows:

- That hell is beneath
- That portals exist
- That darkness has gates
- And that judgment is on the way

Hollywood shows you descent without resurrection.

Darkness without hope.

Power without salvation.

But the truth is:

Jesus descended to defeat the very thing they worship.

And the gates of hell—no matter how deep, well-funded, or Hollywood-rendered—will not prevail.

10 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Worms from the Earth – The Bible's Language of Descent

There's a language in Scripture that chills the soul—not because it's poetic, but because it's prophetic. It speaks of creatures rising from below, serpents licking the dust, entities emerging from holes, pits, and chambers deep beneath the surface of the earth.

The Bible doesn't just describe hell as a fiery place of punishment—it paints it as a layered structure, full of activity, movement, and judgment. And some of the most sobering warnings in the Word don't concern what descends... but what ascends from beneath.

The verse that sets the tone today is Micah 7:17:

“They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.”

This isn't metaphorical flourish. This is prophetic vision.

It's a revelation that something will rise.

Something unclean.

Something hidden.

Something that crawls upward from where it has long been buried.

In this essay, we'll explore:

- The biblical imagery of descent and emergence
- What “worms” symbolize in the Bible
- How Revelation ties the bottomless pit to these entities
- And why the church must be aware of what’s stirring beneath the dust

Because what comes out of the ground isn't always natural.

Sometimes it's judgment wearing flesh.

Micah 7:17 – Worms from the Earth

Let's read the verse in full context:

“They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms of the earth: they shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.” –

Micah 7:17

This verse is describing the reaction of the nations when God delivers His people. But embedded in that judgment is an eerie picture:

- “Lick the dust like a serpent” – This is an intentional allusion to Genesis 3:14, where the serpent (Satan) is cursed to crawl on his belly and eat dust.
- “Move out of their holes like worms of the earth” – Suggests an army or multitude emerging from below, as if subterranean creatures are coming to the surface in fear and humiliation.
- “They shall be afraid” – These are not victorious warriors; they are terrified entities, startled by divine revelation.

The passage evokes a reversal. What was hidden must now rise... and face judgment.

This is the language of exposure.

It tells us there is a time coming when whatever is beneath will no longer be hidden.

The Spiritual Symbolism of Worms

In biblical language, worms are never neutral. They are consistently used to depict:

- Death
- Decay
- Shame
- Judgment

Here are a few examples:

1. Job 17:14

“I have said to corruption, Thou art my father: to the worm, Thou art my mother, and my sister.”

Job is describing the futility of the grave—that worms become his family because the body decays into the earth.

2. Isaiah 66:24

“For their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched...”

Jesus quoted this verse repeatedly when describing hell. The worm here represents conscious decay—something that gnaws continually. An undying torment.

3. Acts 12:23

“And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms...”

King Herod, in his pride, is devoured from within by worms—a sign of judgment and disgrace.

So when Micah says, “They shall move out of their holes like worms,” he isn’t talking about literal invertebrates.

He’s describing cursed beings, spiritually dead entities, shameful, abominable things slithering out from places they were once hidden in.

The Revelation of the Pit

The most direct biblical description of this rising from beneath is found in Revelation 9:

“And the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit.” – Revelation 9:1

The phrase “bottomless pit” appears seven times in Revelation. It’s translated from the Greek abussos—the abyss.

This is a place:

- Beneath the earth
- Sealed with a key
- Filled with demonic entities
- Ready to erupt when God allows it

“And he opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke... and there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth...” – Revelation 9:2–3

These aren’t insects.

They’re described as:

- Like horses prepared for battle
- With faces of men
- Hair like women
- Teeth like lions
- Breastplates of iron
- And a king over them named Abaddon (Apollyon), the Destroyer

This is a release from below, and it aligns perfectly with Micah’s language:

- Creatures rising in fear
- Moving like worms
- Emerging for judgment

It also aligns with Jude 1:6:

“The angels which kept not their first estate... he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness...”

There is a prison beneath us, and it is full.

When God opens the gate, it will not be metaphorical.

It will be visible. Terrifying. And real.

Tunnels, Burrows, and Cursed Movement

Scripture doesn't only describe what comes out from the earth—but also how they move:

“They shall lick the dust like a serpent, they shall move out of their holes like worms...” – Micah 7:17

This is the movement of the cursed.

In Genesis 3:14, God curses the serpent:

“Upon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life.”

This cursed, lowly, slithering movement becomes a prophetic archetype for evil:

- Satan as the serpent
- Demons likened to reptiles or dragons
- Beasts of Revelation emerging from the sea (Revelation 13) and the earth (Revelation 13:11)
- Abominations described as creeping things (Ezekiel 8:10)

Worms from the earth represent rebellion that cannot stand upright.

They must crawl.

Because in Scripture, the righteous stand and walk upright. The wicked crawl, burrow, or emerge in shame.

Why This Imagery Matters

Modern minds are uncomfortable with biblical imagery like this.

We like angels with robes, demons with pitchforks, and hell as metaphor.

But the Bible speaks in spatial, biological, and eschatological terms.

It tells us:

- There are entities buried deep

- Some are disembodied spirits
- Some are imprisoned angels
- Some are neither dead nor alive
- All are awaiting release or judgment

And their movement is described like worms, serpents, and creeping beasts

This isn't just vivid writing—it's spiritual reality rendered in language that forces us to confront what most of the world denies:

There is activity below the surface.

There are spiritual beings beneath the earth.

And one day, they will come out.

They Will Be Afraid

Micah 7:17 ends with this:

“They shall be afraid of the Lord our God, and shall fear because of thee.”

This isn't fear like reverence. It's terror. Dread. Revelation.

The same creatures that slithered in confidence beneath the earth—thinking they were forgotten, hidden, or victorious—will tremble when God rises in judgment.

That's important.

Because it means:

- Hell doesn't rule the underworld. God does.
- Demons don't own the pit. God built it.
- Nothing comes out unless God allows it.

And when He does, it's not for their glory. It's for their destruction.

They will crawl in shame. They will rise in judgment.

And they will fall again—this time into the lake of fire.

The Worm and the Resurrection

There's one more use of "worm" in the Bible that flips the entire image.

In Job 25:6, Bildad says:

"How much less man, that is a worm? and the son of man, which is a worm?"

And in Psalm 22:6, the prophetic psalm of the crucifixion, Christ Himself says:

"But I am a worm, and no man; a reproach of men, and despised of the people."

The Hebrew word here for "worm" is tola'at—the same word used for a crimson worm that, when crushed, releases a red dye used in royal garments.

Jesus identified with the lowest, the crushed, the crawling—not because He was cursed, but because He bore the curse for us.

So while the wicked rise from the earth like worms to face destruction, the Son of God descended like a worm to redeem us from it.

He conquered death by descending into its imagery, and then rising victorious.

Spiritual Application: What's Crawling in Your Soil?

The imagery of "worms from the earth" isn't just about the apocalypse.

It's also about your heart.

Is there anything beneath your surface that:

- Moves in secret?
- Crawls when no one sees?
- Licks the dust of carnality and pride?

God wants to expose the worms before they rise in judgment.

He wants to clean your soil, seal your chamber, and purify your ground before the day comes when the earth opens and the gates of the abyss are unlocked.

Final Reflection: Out of the Holes, Into the Light

The day is coming when the worms will crawl out.

The underworld will no longer be hidden.

The pit will no longer be sealed.

The serpents will no longer be silent.

But as they rise, so too will the voice of the Lord.

Micah says:

“They shall be afraid of the Lord our God...”

They will know.

Every foul spirit.

Every subterranean rebel.

Every unclean ghost from the deep.

They will know.

Because the same Jesus who descended into the pit is coming with fire, with glory, and with final judgment.

So if you're still crawling today, come to Christ.

Because when the worms come out... you won't want to be found underground.

11 of 12: What Lies Beneath – Subterranean Cities of the Damned – Myth or Memory?

We've journeyed through biblical revelation, secret tunnels, ancient gateways, and demonic pits—but now we come to one of the most chilling crossroads of the entire series: the stories of entire cities beneath the earth.

Not just caves.

Not just bases.

Cities.

Whole civilizations—according to legend—have existed, flourished, and perhaps even still function beneath our feet.

Is this merely myth? The fantasy of imaginative explorers? The dreams of occult mystics?

Or are these tales the distorted memory of real events—forgotten by man, but not by Scripture?

In this essay, we'll confront:

- The legends of Agartha, Shambhala, and the Hollow Earth
- The occult fascination with subterranean realms
- How these myths echo spiritual truths in the Bible—about the abyss, the pit, and the lower chambers
- And what it all means for the coming apocalypse

Because sometimes, myths aren't just stories.

They're memories—of something buried... and perhaps still breathing.

Agartha and Shambhala – Myths of an Inner World

Let's begin with two of the most well-known underground legends:

1. Agartha

Agartha (sometimes spelled Agharta) is a legendary kingdom said to exist within the earth, accessible through hidden entrances in:

- The Himalayas
- The North and South Poles
- Deep cave systems and mountains

According to various sources, Agartha is:

- A spiritual city of light and knowledge
- Ruled by a powerful figure known as the King of the World
- Connected by a vast subterranean tunnel network
- Home to advanced beings—some say humans, others say ascended masters or “gods”

Agartha first appeared in Western literature in the 19th century through occult writers and Theosophists like Helena Blavatsky, who combined Eastern mysticism, Hindu cosmology, and occult doctrine.

The idea is that the surface world is blind, but Agartha's inhabitants possess esoteric wisdom and will one day reveal themselves.

2. Shambhala

Shambhala is similar but rooted in Tibetan Buddhism. It is said to be:

- A hidden kingdom
- Beneath or beyond the Himalayas
- Inaccessible to the unworthy
- A place of spiritual perfection
- Home to the future ruler known as the Kalki Avatar

Eastern traditions teach that Shambhala will emerge at the end of the current age, bringing both judgment and renewal.

Here's the kicker: Western occultists merged the ideas of Shambhala and Agartha into a single subterranean city-nation, ruled by beings more advanced than man—waiting for the appointed time to rise.

The Hollow Earth Theory

Expanding on these myths is the Hollow Earth Theory—a belief that the planet is not solid, but hollow, containing entire worlds inside.

First promoted by thinkers like:

- Edmond Halley (of Halley's Comet)
- John Cleves Symmes Jr. (who claimed to see "polar openings")
- Admiral Richard Byrd, who allegedly flew over the North Pole and reported seeing a lush green valley with "giant beings"

According to the Hollow Earth Theory:

- There are entrances at the poles
- The inner earth contains a sun-like core
- Entire civilizations live inside—including giants, aliens, or advanced humans
- These beings are either watching or preparing to return

Sounds insane?

Yes.

But what if it's not all fiction?

What if the theory is wrong—but the instincts are right?

What if the stories of underground worlds reflect a hidden spiritual truth—one that the Bible has described all along?

The Occult's Obsession with What's Below

There's a reason the occult elite, secret societies, and Luciferian thinkers are obsessed with what lies beneath:

- Freemasons perform rituals in subterranean chambers
- Theosophists teach the eventual re-emergence of Agartha
- Nazis searched for entrances to inner-earth cities in Antarctica and Tibet
- The UN has referenced Shambhala in its spiritual outreach efforts
- CERN's collider is built over a temple to Apollyon (the destroyer of Revelation 9)

Why this fascination?

Because occult power demands descent.

In occult initiation, the candidate must:

- Enter darkness (often symbolized by a cave or vault)
- Pass through death (spiritually or symbolically)
- Rise as a "god," carrying hidden knowledge

This mirrors what they believe their ascended masters—whether fallen angels, Nephilim, or demons—have already done.

The occult tells the public: "There are gods below."

The Bible tells the truth: There are prisoners.

What Does the Bible Say About the Underworld?

Let's break it down.

The Bible doesn't teach Hollow Earth.

But it does teach that realms exist beneath our feet.

Let's examine a few key points.

1. The Earth Has Depths and Chambers

- Psalms 63:9 – “Those that seek my soul, to destroy it, shall go into the lower parts of the earth.”
- Ezekiel 26:20 – “I shall bring thee down with them that descend into the pit, to the people of old time, and shall set thee in the low parts of the earth.”
- Proverbs 7:27 – “Her house is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death.”

2. Hell Has a Structure

- Isaiah 14:9 – “Hell from beneath is moved to meet thee at thy coming.”
- Luke 16:22-26 – Jesus describes Abraham's bosom and a place of torment separated by a great gulf.

This isn't symbolic.

This is a compartmentalized underworld:

- Upper Sheol (paradise, now empty)
- Lower Sheol (torment)
- The Pit
- The Abyss (bottomless pit)
- Tartarus (prison of fallen angels)

These are not cities of light.

They are prisons, pits, and dungeons of the damned.

The King of the World – A Counterfeit Christ

Many occult systems describe the ruler of Agartha or Shambhala as the “King of the World.”

They claim he is:

- Immortal
- Wise
- Just
- Waiting to emerge at the end of the age
- Destined to rule mankind from his subterranean throne

But here’s what Scripture says about who actually rises in the last days:

“The beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war...”

– Revelation 11:7

“...the beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition...”

– Revelation 17:8

This isn’t Christ.

It’s Apollyon.

The Antichrist, empowered by Satan himself, will not come from the sky or the stars. He will rise from beneath.

The occult says:

- A shining king will emerge to unify mankind.

The Bible says:

- A beast from the abyss will rise and enslave the world.

Are These Subterranean Cities Literal?

This is where biblical discernment must be sharp.

We don’t need to believe in a literal hollow Earth or an advanced inner civilization to take these legends seriously.

But we must recognize that:

- The ancients saw and recorded massive underground structures
- Tunnel systems, temples, and megalithic chambers exist across the world
- Stories of beings rising from below are nearly universal

Whether these “cities” are:

- Pre-Flood remnants
- Fallen angel strongholds
- Gateways to demonic realms
- Spiritual prisons beneath the crust

—what matters is that the Bible confirms the essential idea:

There are structures beneath the earth.

There are entities beneath the earth.

There is judgment beneath the earth.

And one day, what is sealed will become seen.

Connecting Myths to Demonic Prisons

Let’s connect it all:

Myth: Agartha

- A beautiful city beneath the earth
- Ruled by a wise, hidden king
- Awaiting the time to rise

Bible: The Abyss

- A place of darkness
- Ruled by Apollyon, the destroyer
- Unleashed during the Tribulation

Myth: Shambhala

- A spiritual kingdom of light

- Only the pure may find it
- Will emerge in end times to defeat evil

Bible: Christ's Return

- A true kingdom of righteousness
- For the saints
- Will crush evil not from below—but from above

The world's myths are satanic parodies of God's plan:

- Underground rulers instead of the risen Christ
- Light from below instead of light from heaven
- A global unity under false gods instead of millennial reign with Christ

Why These Cities Are Damned

If these subterranean kingdoms exist in some form, why are they damned?

Because they:

- Were built by rebels
- Preserve forbidden knowledge
- Offer safety outside of God's covenant
- Mirror the Tower of Babel—but downward
- Serve as launch points for demonic deception

That's why Revelation warns:

“And the fifth angel... opened the bottomless pit; and there arose a smoke... and there came out of the smoke locusts...” – Revelation 9:1–3

That's not Agartha.

That's hell unsealed.

Modern Echoes: Are We Building New Ones?

Today's DUMBs (Deep Underground Military Bases) and tunnel networks:

- Resemble the mythic structures of Agartha
- Are sealed from public knowledge
- Are stocked with food, power, and weaponry
- Are rumored to house strange experiments

Are we, in our pride, rebuilding Babel below?

Are our elites trying to descend and escape judgment, only to find the abyss waiting?

Isaiah 28:15 says:

“We have made a covenant with death, and with hell are we at agreement...”

But God replies:

“Your covenant with death shall be disannulled, and your agreement with hell shall not stand...” – Isaiah 28:18

Every subterranean throne will fall.

Every sealed gate will break.

Every damned city will be judged.

Final Reflection: Myth, Memory, or Warning?

So... are subterranean cities a myth?

Maybe.

Are they memory?

Possibly.

But more than that—they are a warning.

A warning that:

- Man has always tried to build apart from God.
- The fallen have always tried to preserve their empire.
- And one day soon, the abyss will open, and what has been buried will rise.

The only city that lasts is the New Jerusalem—not rising from a pit, but descending from heaven.

Everything else—Agartha, Shambhala, DUMBs, tunnels, pits, vaults—will crumble beneath the feet of the King.

Let the damned cities fall.

Let the sealed chambers crack.

Because our city is above, and our King is coming.

12 of 12: What Lies Beneath – The Lowest Hell – Final Judgment and the Prison Below

As we close this twelve-part journey into the dark, hidden, and often-ignored realms beneath our feet, we now arrive at the deepest chamber of all—a place few speak of, fewer understand, and many deny even exists.

It is called the Lowest Hell.

Not just “hell.” Not just “the grave.”

But the lowest, most final, most terrifying expression of divine judgment—a location in Scripture set apart for those who have not only rejected God’s grace, but have joined league with the destroyer himself.

The Bible does not present hell as a one-size-fits-all punishment.

It is layered.

It is structured.

It is descending.

And the bottom?

That’s where the great enemies of God are held—permanently, painfully, and purposefully.

In this final essay, we will explore:

- The phrase “lowest hell” and what it implies
- The geography of biblical judgment
- The prison of the soul
- And the ultimate fate of every unrepentant being—human or angelic—that aligns against God

Because the enemy of your soul is real.
And so is his final destination.

“The Lowest Hell” – Deuteronomy 32:22

We begin with a thunderous declaration from the Song of Moses:

“For a fire is kindled in mine anger, and shall burn unto the lowest hell, and shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains.”

– Deuteronomy 32:22

This is the first—and only—mention of the phrase “lowest hell” in the Bible.

But what a phrase it is.

Let’s break it down:

- “A fire is kindled in mine anger” – God is speaking. Not of a warning, but a reaction. Judgment has already begun.
- “Shall burn unto the lowest hell” – Not just hell—but the deepest level of it. Suggesting degrees, layers, and depths.
- “Shall consume the earth... set on fire the foundations...” – This judgment reaches from the bottom up, consuming both the physical and the spiritual.

The Hebrew word for hell here is Sheol—the realm of the dead. But “lowest” (Hebrew: tachtith) intensifies the imagery. It means:

- The uttermost part
- The deepest depth
- The bottom foundation

We’re not talking about a temporary place of the dead.

This is the final pit.

The base of all rebellion.

The place God has reserved for the worst of creation.

Hell Is Layered

Modern theology often simplifies hell to “a place where bad people go.”

But Scripture reveals something far more complex. Let’s examine its structure:

1. Sheol (Old Testament)

- The general place of the dead
- Divided into:
 - Abraham’s Bosom (Paradise, Luke 16:22)
 - Torments (Luke 16:23)

2. Hades (Greek New Testament equivalent of Sheol)

- The temporary holding place of souls
- Jesus went to the “lower parts of the earth” (Ephesians 4:9) and took the righteous to heaven

3. Gehenna

- Named after the Valley of Hinnom
- Symbolizes eternal judgment
- Used by Jesus to describe final torment (Mark 9:43)

4. The Abyss (Abussos)

- Mentioned in Revelation 9
- A bottomless pit
- Prison of demonic entities, including Apollyon

5. Tartarus

- Mentioned in 2 Peter 2:4
- Specific location for fallen angels
- Unique term from Greek mythology adopted to describe a prison lower than Hades

6. The Lake of Fire

- Final destination (Revelation 20)
- Eternal, conscious torment

- For Satan, the beast, false prophet, and all whose names are not in the Book of Life

So when the Bible refers to the Lowest Hell, it is pointing to the final prison at the bottom of this structure—the deepest holding cell in the universe.

Psalm 63:9 – “They Shall Go Into the Lower Parts of the Earth”

David echoes this descent in Psalm 63:

“But those that seek my soul, to destroy it, shall go into the lower parts of the earth.” –

Psalm 63:9

Here the “lower parts” represent divine judgment. David isn’t just speaking about the grave—he’s speaking of a spiritual consequence.

Throughout Scripture, the phrase “lower parts” or “depths” is symbolic of:

- Humiliation (Ezekiel 32:18–27)
- Judgment (Isaiah 14:15)
- Imprisonment (Psalm 88:6)
- Abandonment by God (Psalm 86:13)

It’s not merely dying.

It’s being cast down.

When Lucifer fell, God said:

“Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit.” – Isaiah 14:15

Sides?

Yes—because the pit has walls, regions, and chambers.

This is a spiritual geography—not poetic flair.

Hell Was Not Made for Man—But Man Goes There

Jesus said in Matthew 25:41:

“Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels.”

The Lake of Fire wasn't made for people.
It was made for Lucifer and his rebels.

But those who reject Christ, who align themselves with sin, who follow the serpent into rebellion—will go where he goes.

Revelation 20:14–15:

“And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death. And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.”

This is the Lowest Hell—the final destination of:

- Satan
- The Antichrist
- The False Prophet
- Fallen angels
- Demons released from the pit
- The unrepentant
- Every soul that rejected the cross of Christ

Outer Darkness? Or Inner Depth?

Jesus often spoke of “outer darkness” where there is weeping and gnashing of teeth (Matthew 8:12, 22:13, 25:30).

This is not a contradiction to “lowest hell”—but a spatial expression of total separation from God.

Think of it this way:

- Outer darkness – Away from the light of God's presence
- Lowest hell – Beneath the structure of God's created order
- Both – Represent spiritual exile, eternal judgment, and unescapable finality

Hell is not one-dimensional.

It is a prison system for the spiritual realm—designed to:

- Confine
- Punish
- Separate
- Destroy

And unlike worldly prisons, there are no appeals. No parole. No escape.

The Fire That Never Dies

Deuteronomy 32:22 said:

“A fire is kindled in mine anger, and shall burn unto the lowest hell...”

Jesus echoed this in Mark 9:43–44:

“To go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched: where their worm dieth not, and the fire is not quenched.”

This is eternal fire.

Not just symbolic of wrath, but the presence of God’s holy judgment.

Hebrews 12:29 says:

“For our God is a consuming fire.”

Hell is not the absence of God.

Hell is the presence of God’s wrath, forever unleashed, without grace.

The same fire that purifies the saved destroys the damned.

Jesus Descended First—So You Don’t Have To

The gospel tells us something astonishing:

“Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?” – Ephesians 4:9

Jesus went down before He went up.

He took on the lowest shame, suffered death, and descended into Sheol—not to be imprisoned, but to proclaim victory, set the captives free, and rise in glory.

Colossians 2:15:

“Having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them...”

He went to the gates of hell and said:

“Not today. These belong to me.”

Because of His descent, we don’t have to go there.

But if we reject Him—there is no other path.

There is no rescue from the Lowest Hell.

The Lake of Fire – The Final Layer

Revelation 20 gives us the final verdict:

“And the devil... was cast into the lake of fire... and shall be tormented day and night forever and ever.” – Revelation 20:10

“This is the second death.” – Revelation 20:14

This is not annihilation.

This is conscious, unending, just judgment.

And it is layered:

- First comes death
- Then judgment
- Then hell
- Then the lowest hell
- Then the lake of fire

It is the final collapse of what lies beneath.

Everything hidden is revealed.

Everything buried is judged.

Everything evil is burned.

The Prison Is Ready

2 Peter 2:4 warns:

“God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment.”

“Cast them down to hell” = Greek: Tartarus

These angels are:

- Chained
- Imprisoned
- Awaiting their day

The prison is built.

The flame is stoked.

The lowest hell is locked—but not empty.

Application: Don't Go Down

You don't have to be imprisoned.

You don't have to descend.

Because someone already did it for you.

Jesus Christ descended into the depths, took the keys of death and hell, and rose again.

He says:

“I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.” – Revelation 1:18

The only way to avoid the lowest hell is to trust the One who conquered it.

Final Reflection: What Lies Beneath Will Fall

This series has exposed:

- Secret tunnels
- Hidden chambers
- Fallen angels

- Subterranean cities
- Government collusion
- Myth turned reality

But now we see the final layer.

The lowest hell.

Not a place of myth, mystery, or speculation—but of divine judgment, eternal torment, and ultimate justice.

Everything that exalts itself will fall.
Everything buried in pride will collapse.

The only refuge is not in tunnels...
Not in bunkers...
Not in the earth...

But in Christ alone.

“Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” –
Matthew 16:18

Let the deepest places tremble. The gates will not stand. The pit will not hold. The keys belong to the King.

What Lies Beneath – Series Conclusion

When the Earth Gives Up Her Dead, and the Pit Is Sealed Forever

We have walked through shadowed tunnels.
We have stood at the mouth of ancient chambers.
We have listened to the earth groan, and the Word thunder.

From the faint hum in the night to the horrifying language of “the lowest hell,” we have followed the descent. Through abandoned cities, black-budget tunnels, underground kingdoms, and chambers of torment, this series has exposed the horrifying reality that the deep beneath us is not empty—it is active, it is spiritual, and it is nearing its final eruption.

But now, we rise. Not in ignorance, not in fear—but in the light of truth.

The Word of God has been clear. Hell is not chaos—it is order under judgment. It is structured. It is layered. And it is measured by a righteous Judge who alone holds the key.

“The earth shall disclose her blood, and shall no more cover her slain.”

— Isaiah 26:21

The day is coming when what lies beneath will be exposed—not just in ruins and rituals, but in resurrection and reckoning. Every rebellious spirit, every hidden stronghold, every dark agreement made in tunnels and chambers and vaults will be pulled into the light of the coming King.

The elite may have made covenants with death and hell.

The nations may have built cities underground.

The demons may tremble beneath the soil.

But the gospel has already descended deeper.

Christ has gone down—into the very belly of the grave—and He has come up, victorious, holding the keys to death and hell in His nail-scarred hands.

And now the call is clear:

Flee the depths.

Reject the covenant of darkness.

Escape the agreement with the pit.

Turn from the illusions of safety offered in bunkers, tunnels, and lies.

Because soon, the gates of hell will be locked.

And those who rejected the Rock will find themselves buried in it.

Let the Church Rise

This series has not been written to sensationalize—but to awaken. To awaken a sleeping Church to the reality of spiritual warfare, demonic architecture, and the prophetic unfolding of judgment that is rising—not just above, but from below.

We cannot afford to be surface Christians in a subterranean war.

This is the time to walk in light.

To proclaim truth.

To stand against the pit.

And to declare that there is only one city worth entering—and it does not rise from the abyss.

“And I John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven...”
— Revelation 21:2

Everything else—Agartha, Shambhala, Tartarus, DUMBs, chambers, rituals, shadows—it will all burn.

The mountain of God will rise.

The abyss will be sealed.

And every knee in heaven, on earth, and beneath the earth will bow before the One who reigns above all.

The Descent Is Over. The Judgment Draws Near.

“That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth...”

— Philippians 2:10

You’ve seen what lies beneath.

Now live for what comes from above.

And tell the world:

The pit is real.

But so is the Savior who went deeper—so we don’t have to.